Price of issue 90 per cent., payable by instalments as under: Both principal and interest, as set forth in the bonds, are secured by a Deed of Hypothecation of the entire property and net revenues of the company, subject only to the charge for interest and redemption of the outstanding First Debenture Bonds issued by the English Bank of Rio de Janeiro (Limited) in 1881, now amounting to £112,000, and repayable by the 1st July, 1893, when the present Second Series will become a first charge on the whole of the company's property and revenues.

The interest is payable in London half-yearly by coupons on the 1st April and 1st October, the first coupon for six months' interest being payable on the 1st April, 1889.

The principal is redeemable in London at par within 32 years by annual drawings, commencing in 1898, according to the table annexed to the bonds.

The English Bank of Rio de Janeiro (Limited) is prepared to receive subscriptions for the above Debenture Bonds at the price of 90 per cent.,

Payable £5 per cent. on application.
20 „ on allotment.

£90 per cent.

Payment may be made in full on allotment or at the dates of any of the above instalments under discount of 3½ per cent. per annum.

The Cantareira Water Supply and Drainage Company of the City of Sao Paulo, Brazil, was founded on the 25th June, 1877, for the purpose of purchasing and working certain concessions for the supply of water to, and the drainage of, the City of Sao Paulo, granted by the Provincial Government of that province, under contracts dated respectively the 8th October, 1875, and the 7th April, 1877, and the company was duly organised and its statutes approved by decree of the Imperial Government of Brazil (No. 6,833), bearing date 30th January, 1878.

The share capital of the company is Rs.5,000,000$, equal at 27d. the par of exchange, to £562,500, divided into 25,000 shares of Rs.200$.

Comprising 18,514 Ordinary Shares, and 6,486 Preference Shares, of which 911 had not yet been issued.

The capital of the company paid up is Rs. 2,071,720$, or, at 27d., £233,131.

Being 50 per cent. on 18,514 Ordinary Shares, and 20 per cent. on 5,575 Preference Shares,

so that the company possesses an uncalled subscribed capital of Rs.2,730,080$, equal to £307,076, as an additional security for the debentures now offered.

The object of the present issue of the second series of Debenture Bonds is to pay off a temporary loan recently raised in Rio de Janeiro for the redemption of £200,000 of Second Mortgage 7½ per Cent. Sterling Bonds, and to liquidate a debt to the Bank of Brazil (thus effecting a considerable saving in the rate of interest), and further, for the extension of the works in the new districts of Campos Elysios, Bom Retiro, and Braz, by which the revenue of the company will be considerably augmented.

The City of Sao Paulo is the capital of the province of that name, undoubtedly by far the richest and most prosperous province in the Brazilian Empire, the city has rapidly increased in extent and prosperity during the past 10 years, and has every appearance of continuing to do so. In 1878, the date of the formation of the company, the population was reported as 25,000, and the number of houses as about 3,000. In 1887 the population was reported as 50,000, and the number of houses as 7,000. Of these houses 6,500 are within the company's water and drainage system, 4,752 have drainage connection, and 4,515 are supplied with water. It is a well-recognised fact that the reservoirs and works of the company have been most substantially constructed, and the supply of water is both good and abundant. It is estimated that at least 700 more houses will be brought into connection with the company during the current year.

The following table, extracted from the last report of the company, shows how rapidly the revenue has gone on increasing since 1883 (when full operations commenced):

TABLE.
Receipts.

Year.	Water.	Drainage.	Sundries.

1886	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
1887	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]

It will be seen that the net income during 1887 amounted to Rs.207,[illegible], or nearly double that of 1884, whilst for the first six months of the present year, according to data furnished by the company the net income amounted to Rs.160,[illegible], which at 26d. is equal to an annual income of .... £35,[illegible]

The annual amount required for the service of the First Debenture Bonds is about £10,800
And for the service of the present issue during the first ten years £17,500
£27,300 [illegible]

The existing works have therefore a surplus of .... £7,[illegible] without calculating the revenue which will accrue from the extensions to be effected with part of the proceeds of this loan.

After the redemption, in 1893, of the first series of debenture bonds, of which there are now only £112,000 outstanding, the bonds of the present issue will become a first charge on the whole undertaking, revenues, rights, and properties of the company.

Applications for the debenture bonds on the annexed form, accompanied by a deposit of 5 per cent., must be sent to the English Bank of Rio de Janeiro (Limited), 2a, Moorgate-street, London, E.C.

In case of no allotment the deposit will be returned in full.

When a less number of bonds is allotted than are applied for the surplus of the deposit will be applied in whole or in part, as the case may be, to the payment of the amount due on the allotment.

In default of payment of the respective instalments at their due dates, all previous payments will be liable to forfeiture.

Scrip certificates to bearer will be issued against allotment letters to be afterwards exchanged for the bonds when ready, of which due notice will be given.

Prospectuses and forms of application may be obtained at the English Bank of Rio de Janeiro (Limited), 2a, Moorgate-street, London, E.C., and of Messrs. Hichens, Harrison, and Co., Brokers, of 41, Threadneedle-street, E.C.

ABRIDGED PROSPECTUS.

This company is formed to lease and operate, as a going and dividend-paying concern, a group of 12 gold mines, situated in the territory of Arizona, U.S.A., together with the 20-stamp mill thereon, and to purchase all appurtenances connected therewith.

The mines have been inspected and reported upon by Mr. Cyrus Gribble, M.E., and by Prof. W. P. Blake, M.E. In order, however, to provide against the possibility of error, the directors have, with the entire concurrence of the vendor, arranged to take over and operate the mines for six months upon the following exceptional terms:

(a) If within the period of six months the mines shall not, in the sole opinion of the directors, prove as valuable as represented by the vendor, they are empowered to call upon the vendor to reimburse the company all expenses of every kind and nature (so that the subscriptions may be returned in full to the shareholders), and should he fail to comply therewith within thirty days of a notice requiring him so to do, then the directors are empowered to sell the mines, mining claims, plant, machinery, tools, stores, &c., by auction.

(b) The balance realised by such sale (if any), after paying in full all and every expense incurred in and about the company, to be paid over to the vendor.

(c) No part of the purchase consideration, either in cash or shares, to be paid to the vendor until the directors have finally determined to take over the property for the company.

(d) The mines are to be operated by the company as from the 1st September instant, from which date all profits realised to belong exclusively to the company upon the directors finally electing to take over the property.

Description of Mines.

The property comprises 12 claims, 11 of them 1,500 by 600ft., and one of 1,500 by 600ft. Several veins traverse the lands. Four only have been worked to any extent. From this small portion of the property upwards of 600,000 tons of ore have been taken, yielding over $5,000,000. The mines are all owned by Hon. Horace A. W. Tabor, who guarantees the validity of the title.

The mill and machinery, which are in working order and constantly running, comprise 20 stamps, driven by an engine of 125-horse power, with all requisite winding engines, and an engineers' shop, assay office, buildings, tools, and plant. The original cost is stated to have exceeded £50,000.

The bullion averages 760 fine gold, worth $15.60 or about £3 5s. per ounce.

Until recently the free gold only has been saved, and the sulphurets have been allowed to pass away with the tailings. It is stated that there are upon the property tailings amounting to at least 300,000 tons, and that the average yield would exceed 25 per ton.

Estimate of Future Profits and Works Proposed.

The mines are in daily operation, and for the year ending May 1, 1888, as proved by certified returns, yielded about $190,000, or over £38,000 net, a result obtained with only four concentrators at work. Eight more concentrators will be erected and at work before the mine is taken over, which on the basis of Mr. Gribble's estimate should raise the net profit to over £50,000 per annum, or more than 25 per cent. upon the capital of the company, and to this will be added the profit from the working over of the tailings.

It is proposed to eventually lay a second line of water pipes, and to use the supply from the present pipes in treating the tailings above referred to. These tailings are simply concentrated, shipped, and sold.

Reports and Authorities.

In his report for 1885, the director of the United States Mint says of the Vulture: "It is the largest producer of gold in Arizona."

A special report has been made for the company by Prof. W. P. Blake, M.A., F.G.S., Member of the American Ins. of Mining Engineers. Prof. Blake was formerly Government Geologist of Japan, and also Government Geologist of the United States, and is probably the greatest living authority upon United States gold mines. Extracts from this report and from the report of Mr. C. Gribble accompany the full prospectus.

Mr. Gribble states that the developments have reached a vertical depth of about 350ft., and there now stand in sight in these lower levels 150,000 tons of rich ore with an assay value of from $15 to $20 per ton; besides 250,000 tons still remaining in sight in the upper levels of the same grade as the ore already extracted.

A contract has been entered into dated 7th September, 1888, between Hon. H. A. W. Tabor (the registered owner of the property) of the one part, and the company of the other part, for a lease of all the real property for a period of 50 years at a nominal yearly rent of £10 for each of the 12 claims, and for the sale of the equipments, all for the sum of £100,000, payable as to £15,000 in cash, and as to 66,666 in shares, and the balance, viz., £18,334, in cash or shares at the option of the directors. In this contract are embodied the provisions upon which is based the second paragraph of this prospectus.

Full prospectuses and forms of application can be obtained of the bankers, brokers, or at the offices of the company, where also copies of the reports can be inspected.

In cases where no allotment is made the deposit will be returned in full, and when a less amount is allotted than applied for, the balance of the application-money will be applied to the amount due upon allotment.

DAVID JOHN and COMPANY (Limited).
ABRIDGED PROSPECTUS.

The company is formed for the purpose of acquiring from Mr. John Davies, the trade of the Mardy Brewery, Mardy, Rhondda Valley, South Wales, the tied trade of several large hotels, the well-known Pentre Brewery, and the old-established wine, spirit, bottled beer and stout business of Mr. David John, of The Pentre, Rhondda Valley, successfully carried on by him for the past 25 years, and

1. The capital eight-quarter brewery, with modern plant in good condition and working order, capable of turning out 10,000 barrels per annum—the present output being at the rate of 6,500 barrels a year—held on lease for about 90 years, at the extremely low rent of £5 per annum.

2. The bottling stores, offices, and premises, fitted with every requirement for the trade. These are held for about 80 years, at £1 15s. per annum. Mr. John supplies by far the greater portion of the bottled ales and stout consumed in the Rhondda Valley, and is Messrs. Bass's agent for the district.

3. The plant, machinery, rolling stock, horses, book debts, and goodwill.

4. The secured trade of four large hotels attached to the Mardy Brewery and 13 public-houses and hotels, belonging and tied to the Pentre Brewery, making in all 17 tied houses, all of which are situate in thickly-populated mining districts of the Rhondda. Two of these houses have the exclusive trade of Mardy, which is one of the most flourishing and prosperous places in the Rhondda. A large free trade is also done.

The various properties and stocks have been examined on behalf of the company by Messrs. W. and S. Hern, of Cardiff, Auctioneers, Estate Agents, and Accountants, who have also audited and examined Mr. John's books for several years past. Their certificate is appended.

DAVID JOHN and COMPANY (Limited).

"Cardiff, August 18th, 1888.

"We have made a careful examination of the brewery, brewery plant, trade appliances, rolling stock, horses, and stock-in-trade in and about the Pentre Brewery, and the wine, spirit, and beer stores, all situate at Pentre, Rhondda Valley, and also the leasehold hotels, public houses, and properties about to be purchased by the company. These, with the goodwill and book debts of the businesses, together with the trade of the Mardy Brewery—in fact, the whole of the above as a going concern, we value at forty-six thousand seven hundred and twenty-two pounds one shilling and seven pence (£46,722 1s. 7d.).

"For several years past we have audited the brewery books, and also the wine, spirit, and bottled beer accounts kept by Mr. David John, at Pentre, and we hereby certify, after making allowance for bad debts and depreciation, that the profits for the year ending 31st December, 1887, amount to .... £4,[illegible] 2 11
Add profit rentals of houses .... [illegible] 0 0
£5,[illegible] 2 11

We have also examined the books to ascertain the amount of business done during the current year, and consider that the year's profits should show an increase of fully £500.

"(Signed) W. and S. Hern, Public Accountants, Auctioneers, &c."

Since the foregoing valuation was made one of the houses mentioned in it has been let on lease, the tenant agreeing to pay £2,[illegible] premium, the exact sum at which Messrs. W. and S. Hern valued it. It is proposed to set aside £500 of this sum as the nucleus of a reserve fund.

Certified profits as above .... £5,[illegible] 2 11
The estimated profits from increased trade, and the connection of the Mardy Brewery .... [illegible] 0 0

SPECULATIVE INVESTMENTS.

ARGENTINE HARD DOLLARS.—My latest issued advice for speculative investment was Argentine Hard Dollars. These I recommended when they stood at 69. A purchaser would have since received a quarter's dividend of £9 3s. 9d. on 5,000 dollars, the equivalent of £1,000 stock. They have since been 75½, so that, allowing for the accrued increase in value, a purchaser would have received interest at the rate of over 25 per cent. per annum on the amount invested, and had they been purchased with a cover of 2 per cent., the profit secured would have been at the rate of 862 per cent. on amount invested.

I again repeat I have been invariably right in my speculative investments. I only recommend good dividend paying stocks, and I think this system of making money well worth your attention. See below.

£5 Commands £500 Stock.
£10 „ 1,000 „
£20 „ 2,000 „
£50 „ 5,000 „
No other liability whatever.

THE AMOUNT of STOCK I dealt in this YEAR up to the Account ending Sept. 26, was over SEVENTY-ONE MILLIONS.

£71,000,000.

IMPORTANT TELEGRAPHIC ARRANGEMENTS.

I WISH to call close attention to a new departure in my business, which is of the utmost importance to country dealers. I have made arrangements with the Post Office for a direct wire into my own offices, thus saving some ten to twenty minutes on messages. I need hardly point out the advantages to customers dealing at a distance, who are thus put in actual contact with my offices from every part of the United Kingdom. Thus a message sent from MY CITY OFFICES to MANCHESTER is DELIVERED in FIVE MINUTES.

JOHN SHAW'S SYSTEM of BUSINESS.—He offers more liberal terms for dealing than any dealer in London or elsewhere. Get advice where you choose, but deal where you get the best terms, and possible losses will result in positive profits.

AGRICULTURAL OUTLOOK.

The weather is still very seasonable, although October has brought a much colder temperature, the strange spectacle of snowstorms interrupting harvest operations having been reported from Scotland. Indeed, some damage appears to have been caused in the late districts of the northern kingdom by the bad weather of last week. Still, the quantity of grain out in the fields is not now large, and the harvest reports of the Scotch Lowlands, as well as of the North of England counties, have all along been of a favourable nature. Probably there was never a season when reports as regards realisations in thrashing the new wheat crop differed more as to results, while some farmers report that they have found the firstfruits of the crop to yield only from twenty-four to twenty-eight bushels per acre where they secured thirty-five bushels last year. Other accounts testify to over forty bushels per acre having been obtained. According to general expectation, bright samples of both wheat and barley will be shown this year, but in respect of wheat most farmers have been agreeably surprised to find their grain weigh quite as heavy according to measure as it did last year.

The annual dairy show, which opens to-morrow in the Agricultural Hall, Islington, and lasts until Friday night, is the thirteenth which the British Dairy Farmers' Association has held, and in all probability will in no respect be less interesting than its predecessors. There are 276 entries of cattle, and fifty-three of the cows and heifers are entered for the milking trials. Of other live stock, seventy-two goats and thirty-five pigs are entered, while the poultry and pigeon departments in the galleries are expected to be very extensive, about 4,000 birds having been entered. In addition to the Society's working dairy in the centre of the hall, there will be two competitive dairies at work, one for butter-making, the other for Cheddar cheese-making, and as many as thirty dairymaids and fifteen dairymen will engage in them. The latter will compete by themselves at noon to-morrow, the dairymaids competing together at the same period of the day on Wednesday. On Thursday the winners in the contests of these days, as well as those of the two previous years, will engage in a grand competition for the champion prize. The entries of butter are 298, of cream 53, of cheese 132, and in the cheese fair there are 44 entries, while for eggs there are 27, and for bacon and hams 44. The numerous admirably-constructed dairy utensils, together with machinery for creameries and factories, will probably interest the general public as much as anything, and there is likely to be a good attendance of country people, most of the railway companies having advertised excursion trains to London during the current week.

Several important cattle and sheep fairs have been held in Yorkshire, as well as in the South-west of England, during the past week, and although trade at some of them has been reported as dull, there is no reaction from the very satisfactory prices breeders have been able to secure since the commencement of the autumn. The great Ballinasloe Irish Stock Fair was also held last week, at which 22,465 sheep are reported as having been sold at prices from 6s to 8s above the rates of last year. At the Cattle Fair on Friday three-year-old beasts realised from £13 to £14 each, some of the two-year-olds selling for as much as £12 per head. These prices were quite from £2 to £3 above those current a year ago. Several important pedigree stock sales have also recently taken place, the most important in regard to cattle being probably that of the sale of shorthorns at Calthwaite Hall, when, in addition to the herd of Mr. J. Harris being dispersed, eleven high-bred animals, the remnant of the famous Killhow herd of Mr. S. P. Foster, were disposed of. Among the latter was Duchess of Killhow 2nd, a beautiful roan yearling heifer of the famous Duchess tribe, and the daughter of Duchess 123rd, second prize-winner at the Royal Agricultural Society's Show at Shrewsbury in 1884. The Earl of Bective purchased her for 405 guineas, the same nobleman obtaining Lady Blithfield 4th, of the Waterloo tribe, for fifty-one guineas. An average of £64 9s 7d each was obtained for Mr. Foster's eleven.

The sale of Mr. Chandos Pole-Gell's famous stud of Shire horses has been held at a favourable juncture, when agriculturists are very generally turning their attention to cart-horse breeding as one of the most remunerative of pursuits connected with farming. Mr. G. M. Sexton maintained that no other branch of breeding or of husbandry is calculated to yield such magnificent returns as that of propagating the best strains of Shire horses. In proof of his statements he asserted that at the Ashbourne show and sale on the previous day a foal sold by a tenant farmer had realised £5 more than sufficient to pay the rent of the owner's farm for the past year. Several of the animals at Mr. Pole-Gell's auction realised high prices, 390 guineas being given by Lord Wantage for Beatrice, a yearling filly by Harold, whose dam Sally, a grey mare in her sixteenth year, was taken by Mr. Walter Gilbey for £157 10s; while the foal of Sally realised £120 15s from Mr. Sutton-Nelthorpe, and the agent of his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales bought Brunette, by Enterprise of Cannock, another daughter of Sally; the four of this family making altogether over 800 guineas, and it was stated that animals from her previously sold had yielded about £600. Mr. Walter Gilbey was the chief opponent of Lord Wantage for the possession of Beatrice, but, being disappointed in obtaining her, he determined to possess himself of the old mare. Mr. H. Arkwright gave 180 guineas for Brilliant, a brown mare, and for one of the three-year-old fillies Mr. Walter Gilbey gave 210 guineas. The highest-priced stallion was Majestic, for which Mr. Muntz, M.P., gave £325 10s. Mainstay, another stallion, was, however, reserved at 500 guineas, and not sold. Mr. Ritter, of Minnesota, paid 145 guineas for the stallion Romeo II., and several other animals were bought for exportation to America, some of the foals being purchased for his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales. The total sum realised was £3,488 6s, making an average of about £109 each for thirty-two animals, including ten foals. The American demand is at present very active for Shire horses, and it was stated at the auction ring that the secretary of the Shire Horse Society has during the present year signed over 1,000 certificates for horses of this breed, chiefly stallions to go to America.

Lord Walsingham, in presiding over the recent annual meeting and dinner of the Wayland Agricultural Society, alluded prominently to two subjects, the great decline which has taken place in sheep breeding, according to the statistics of the agricultural returns, and the advantage obtainable by converting grass crops to silage instead of to hay. Flocks have declined 702,538 in number since 1887 in the United Kingdom, which Lord Walsingham considers one of the worst circumstances of agricultural depression, and he very emphatically pointed out how grave and comprehensive are the losses sustained in general farming by any serious falling off in the numbers of sheep kept on the farm, these not being circumscribed to a less number of animals to be sold off yearly, and the todding of the wool account being deficient, but that the loss in fertility to the land itself, owing to the smaller quantity of manure deposited by the flock, must be accounted very serious indeed. According to Lord Walsingham's statements the diminution in sheep has been much greater in the Thetford district of Norfolk than elsewhere throughout the country, but his advice is certainly applicable for the entire kingdom, now that prospects for sheep breeding have greatly improved to what they were a year since, that efforts should be made to bring up the numbers of flocks to their normal standard. Lord Walsingham traced the diminution of flocks to three primary causes—unfavourable seasons, injudicious application of chemical manures, and the gradual diminution of capital and labour. The effect of unfavourable seasons standing alone would, of course, be only temporary. Thus, the wet seasons of 1879 and 1880 caused the extensive contraction of liver rot, which swept off entire flocks en masse, causing the numbers in the returns of 1881 and 1882 to be lower than they had been for the entire period since the agricultural returns have been gathered. Subsequently, however, the flocks of the United Kingdom increased again, but not to the full extent they had numbered previously. Owing to the bad turnip crop of 1885 there was again a decline, followed by a corresponding increase in 1887, after a tolerably good root crop; but the drought of that year caused farmers to diminish their stock very much in the autumn of last year, and scarcity of food last winter also operated exceedingly to produce the result adverted to by Lord Walsingham. Still it must be admitted that, compared with 1874, when there were over thirty millions of sheep in the United Kingdom, the largest returns of the past decade seem small, and the deficit is now fully three millions. Consequently it appears reasonable to conclude that the extensive conversion of arable land to pasture since 1874 has exerted a very material influence in diminishing instead of increasing the sheep stock of the country. According to a paper in the last volume of the Royal Agricultural Society's Journal, a large portion of English new pastures are in a condition bordering on semi-barrenness, and Mr. Caird, the author of the paper, advised that they should be broken up again.

MONEY MARKET.

SATURDAY EVENING.

Payment of the dividends on the Funds and the release of a portion of the total recently locked up by the India Council caused an increase in the floating supply of money, yet short loans were in active demand at rates ranging from 3½ to 4½ per cent., in consequence of repayments to the Bank of England. A further large sum, however, will be disbursed next week, and the market is generally affected by the borrowings of the Government about this period. It is understood that the amount temporarily taken by the Chancellor of the Exchequer from the Bank, in connection with the distribution of the half-yearly interest on Consols, has been about £2,500,000. Meanwhile gold is flowing into that establishment, the amount received to-day, chiefly from Paris, being nearly £150,000. And a steady supply is expected, unless discount rates again recede. There is at the moment strong competition for bills, and transactions have occurred in three months' at 4⅛ per cent. Some of the banks have also taken drafts from the brokers as low as 4. The effect of the official movement to 5 per cent. is thus almost completely neutralised, and the Imperial Bank of Germany will probably soon raise its minimum. In addition to the Stock Exchange settlement, instalments fall due in a few days on the City of Buenos Ayres and New South Wales loans. The position of the money market is still regarded as very uncertain, and it may become serious if the various institutions refuse to support the Bank in its endeavour to attract gold.

A better demand for money in the States is shown in the weekly return of the New York Associated Banks, the loans and discounts having increased £980,000. Net deposits are larger by £820,000, and legal tenders have diminished £380,000. The specie is also £80,000 less, and the circulation £60,000 down. The reserve is now £22,920,000, being a reduction of £460,000, and the surplus is £2,280,000, or a decrease of £665,000. These changes are probably largely due to grain movements in America.

Increased depression has been reported in the Stock Exchange markets, additional sales being made on the prospect of extreme carrying over rates at the settlement. The flatness was helped by the receipt of lower prices from the Continent, especially Berlin, where numerous speculative accounts for a rise were closed in anticipation of an advance in the German discount rate. However, the final quotations were not the worst, a few purchases being made late in the day on the influx of gold to the Bank, making, so far, about £400,000 since the date of the last return. There was very little new business, fresh operations being almost entirely deferred for the present. Home railways were nearly all lower, but, except Glasgow and South-Western, North Staffordshire, Brighton "A," and Caledonian, which fell ⅝ to 1 per cent., the variations did not exceed ¼ to ½. A decline occurred in American lines, partly on New York prices. Milwaukees, Denvers, Eries, Lake Shores, Louisvilles, New York Centrals, and Northern Pacifics were freely sold. Grand Trunks and Canadian Pacifics were rather lower, together with Mexican Railroads and Nitrates. The downward movement in foreign bonds was pretty general, and was most severe in Austrian, Ecuador, Egyptian, Guatemala, Mexican, Spanish, Turkish, and Uruguayan. Consols rose ⅛ per cent. for money, but were unaltered for the account. Miscellaneous and mining securities shared in the heaviness. Diamond undertakings were very flat, and the last quotations, though not the worst, showed a fall of about ⅜ each in De Beers and Kimberley Central.

About £140,000 in gold from Paris was sent into the Bank.

Bar silver fell ⅛d, to 43d per ounce, and Mexican dollars were ⅛d lower, at 42⅛d. Shipments of the white metal from New York for Europe during the week have amounted to £74,590. Bombay transfers declined 1-16d, to 1s 4⅜d, and Calcutta 1-16d, to 1s 4 13-32d. Rupee Paper was flat and quotations were nominal. The Four and a Half per Cents. were ½ worse, at 71, ½, and the Four per Cents. ⅜ down, at 67, ½.

Dealings on the Continental Bourses again consisted almost entirely of sales, and prices gave way. At Berlin, Prussian Four per Cents., Egyptian Unified, Turkish, Italian, Hungarian, Austrian, Deutsche Bank, Lombardo, and Mexican were mostly sold. The Russian rouble was nearly 1½ lower. In Paris a reduction took place in Crédit Foncier, Ottoman Bank, Suez Canal, Panama, Rio Tinto, Greek, and Portuguese. The Three per Cent. Rentes fell 15c, to 82f 37½c, and the Four and a Half per Cents., 10c, to 105f 52½c. Exchange on London (cheques) rose 1c, to 25f 41½c.

Compared with the previous account, the weekly return of the National Bank of Belgium exhibits an increase of £230,440 in the current accounts, £159,560 in the other securities, £82,120 in the coin and bullion, and £64,880 in the note circulation.

For September the Board of Trade returns appear less favourable, probably owing to the fact that there were five Sundays as against only four in the same month last year. The total exports were valued at £19,603,660, or a decrease of £230,170, chiefly in yarns and textile fabrics. Machinery and millwork, chemicals, articles of food and drink have increased. Shipments of cotton piece goods to India, Turkey, and Egypt were larger, as well as to Japan, while those to China and Hong Kong, the Foreign West Indies, and the Argentine Republic were less. Except Germany, Continental requirements have diminished, the consignments to Italy being little more than one-half. For the nine months the exports amounted to £174,231,542, being an augmentation of £11,132,128. The imports for the month reached £28,414,372, showing an increase of £1,222,778, principally in articles of food and drink (duty free), metals, manufactured articles, and raw materials for sundry industries. On the other hand, raw materials for textile manufactures, articles of food and drink (dutiable), and tobacco exhibit a sensible reduction. Our receipts of wheat from Russia and India are much larger, but the supply from the United States has decreased. For the nine months the total imports were £278,622,431, or £14,185,421 more.

Rumours have been current of late that the Economic Life Assurance Society had suffered serious losses from the defalcations of a clerk, and in reply to inquiries from policy holders and members the following official circular has been issued. This is one of the oldest insurance undertakings, the company having been established in the year 1823. The amount of the assurance fund was stated some time ago at upwards of £3,500,000:

> Economic Life Assurance Society, 6, New Bridge-street, Blackfriars, E.C., London, Oct. 6, 1888.
> Sir—In answer to the inquiry contained in your letter of yesterday, I am instructed to inform you that the directors have discovered, with great concern, that certain defalcations have occurred through the dishonesty of a clerk who has held for many years an important position in the office, and in whom, on account of his long services, much confidence had been placed. The directors are now engaged in making a thorough investigation into the circumstances of the case. Full information on the whole subject will in due time be communicated to the policy holders. Meanwhile I am instructed by the directors to assure you that the loss (which has been ascertained) is not of such an amount as at all seriously to affect the interests of the society.—I am, sir, your obedient servant,
> (Signed) JOHN R. GRIMES, Secretary.

It is intimated that the London and South African Exploration Company (Limited) have advice of remittances amounting to £6,150 for four weeks, making, with £53,880 previously notified, a total for forty weeks of £60,030, or, allowing for drafts on account of rates for the year (£6,950), a net sum of £53,080.

The half-yearly report of the Ionian Bank shows a balance of undivided profit amounting to £29,956, out of which the directors recommend the payment of a dividend at the rate of 5 per ct. per annum free of income-tax, which will absorb £7,887.

In the report of the Union Assurance Society it is stated that the total income for the year ended June last was £298,659, against £277,506 in the previous year, and that the increase in the society's funds was £29,507, thus raising the accumulated funds to £2,070,938.

A circular issued by the Anglo-American Brush Electric Light Corporation (Limited) states that the volume of the company's business during the year shows a very considerable increase as compared with previous years, and that the factories are at present fully employed. The directors also congratulate the shareholders upon the improved prospects generally of the electrical industry.

From the report of the Recife and San Francisco Pernambuco Railway Company (Limited) for the half-year ended June it appears that the accounts show a net available sum of £31,298, after writing off an amount which will be applied to extinguishing debentures maturing within the next four months. It is proposed to pay a dividend at the rate of 5 per ct. per annum, and it is intended that this rate shall be maintained out of the net income of the undertaking, any surplus remaining being applied from time to time to the reduction of the debenture debt until the whole is extinguished.

It appears from Kemp's Mercantile Gazette that the number of failures in England and Wales gazetted during the week ended Oct. 6 was 83, including 15 in the grocery and provision trades, 12 in the wine, spirit, and beer, 11 in the building, and 10 in the drapery, silk, and woollen. The total in the corresponding week of last year was 90, showing a decrease now of 7.

Telegraphic advice has reached the London branch of the Federal Bank of Australia (Limited) that the dividend for the half-year ended Sept. 30 is at the rate of 9 per ct. per annum. Undivided profits amounting to £11,000 are carried forward.

On and after Oct. 15 the directors of the Compagnie Générale des Asphaltes de France (Limited) have resolved to pay an interim dividend of 5s per share to their shareholders.

For the preparation of interest warrants to June 30 last the Conde d'Eu Railway Company (Limited) notify the closing of their transfer books and register of members from Oct. 17 to 31, inclusive.

Debenture coupons of the Margate Hotel Company (Limited) will be payable on and after Oct. 15 by Messrs. Cobb and Co., Margate.

According to the report of the Eastern and Midlands Railway Company the fixed guaranteed rent to June 30 last has been received from the working companies, and has been applied to the payment of interest on the Debenture Stock and of dividend on the Four per Ct. Preference. As regards the Peterborough section, a balance of £305 remains to be carried to the next account, after payment of the interest on the Debenture Stock and the fixed dividend of 5 per ct. on the Preferred.

Messrs. Arbuthnot, Ewart, and Co. and Messrs. Ogilvy, Gillanders, and Co. have removed their offices to 67, Cornhill, E.C.

At the last meeting of the Institute of Chartered Accountants, Mr. Francis W. Pixley (Chandler, Pixley, and Co.), London, Mr. C. R. Trevor (Trevor and Pilling), Manchester, Mr. Thomas Bowden, Newcastle-on-Tyne, and Mr. J. Hudson Smith, Bristol, were selected to fill the vacancies on the council of the institute.

WRECKS AND CASUALTIES.

Lloyd's agent at Gibraltar telegraphed, Oct. 6, that the Laforte, French schooner, and the Whickham, British steamer, were in collision nine miles East of Europa. The former sank, and the master was drowned. The latter was only slightly damaged.

Lloyd's agent at Lowestoft telegraphs that the Gefion, Danish schooner, of Aeroskjobing (Lauritsen, master), from Northfleet for Leith, laden with cement, was abandoned at ten p.m. on the 5th inst. in the North Sea in a sinking condition. The crew were landed by the fishing lugger Seal of Lowestoft.

The schooner Blue and White, from Saffi to Irvine, before reported lost at sea, struck what was believed to be some floating wreckage on Sept. 11, and commenced to make water badly. The pumps were kept constantly going up till noon on the next day, when all hopes were given up of saving the vessel, the water having gained at least 6ft; and the yacht Hirondelle, belonging to the Prince of Monaco, having sent a boat alongside to offer assistance, the crew abandoned their vessel, there being then 7ft 6in water in the hold. She foundered in about lat. 44 N. long. W. The master and crew were landed at Lorient by the Hirondelle on Sept. 21.

The Sir Robert Sale, Captain Taylor, in ballast, has been wrecked in Oran Bay; all the crew saved and landed at Oran (Algeria).

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.

NEWMARKET SECOND OCTOBER MEETING.

With a five-day programme awaiting discussion, it would be out of place to bestow too much notice upon the results of last week. The sport was, on the whole, however, very good, and, a fair start having been made at Nottingham, the fields became strong at Epsom, where the autumn revival has now ended with an equally big return from Kempton Park on Friday. The Newmarket stables took their full share of the prizes at Nottingham, thanks to Camballina, Countess Tharry, and Diana on the first day, and Teviot on the second. They were likewise well to the front each day at Epsom, and it was an entire contrast, therefore, when at Kempton Park—of course, I am eschewing the small affair of Saturday under Grand National Rules—not a single hit was made by the representatives of headquarters. Of the winners at Nottingham, both Teviot and Meadow Brown tried their luck subsequently at Epsom, and if the one was outclassed with his extra weight in the Egmont Nursery, carried off by the colt by Barcaldine—Bonnie Rose, the other succeeded in appropriating the Woodcote Nursery. Remembering how forward he ran at Huntingdon, I am not in the least surprised to see the son of Bonnie Rose successful, and on paper he almost spoils the Orleans Nursery at Sandown Park, as the penalty does not raise him beyond 6st 7lb. Meadow Brown can claim to have inherited the stamina of her sire, Thurio, as she was travelling a mile both at Nottingham and Epsom, whereas in the spring and summer she went down at five furlongs in what may be termed moderate selling-plate company. The victory of Gervas at Epsom was confirmation of his previous liking for the course, and Prudence made her first mark of the season when Fred Barrett squeezed her home from the Sandown Park rivals, Deuce of Clubs and Sea Song. This display on the part of Baron Rothschild's little mare points in a very direct manner to the value of the Great Eastern Handicap form, and it may have had something to do with the Cambridgeshire demonstration on behalf of Sandal, which has exercised such a deteriorating influence upon Danbydale. Not that I am at all certain that Lord Calthorpe's filly will stay the course, and if she does we shall, as far as the produce of Shoestring is concerned, witness an exceptional case. With Paloma recovering in the Durdans Nursery the laurels she lost at Manchester, Mr. Hammond possesses two chestnuts of which he may indeed be proud, and it is as well for some of the youngsters that are destined to rank in the light of October champions that Laureate cannot cross their path. The best nursery field of the week was at Kempton Park, and the future may show that Amphion should not have been asked to gallop seven furlongs. Either the distance or the weight favoured Ormonde's sister, Fleur de Lys, the verdict, which she gained in the last stride or two, looking quite out of her reach below the bend into the straight. Orbit, who is just now one of the most abused horses in training, had won the same Nursery for the Duke of Westminster last year, and he then improved considerably until the end of the season. A parallel to this might be supplied by Fleur de Lys, and she has already exposed the falseness of the York running.

The quiet and, it might be added, dull experiences of the Newmarket First October will hardly extend to the meeting which commences to-morrow and lasts over Friday. The apathy that prevailed for so long in connection with the Cesarewitch is giving way, and, much as the field must suffer, even in comparison with that of last year, there should be no difficulty in conjuring up plenty of excitement from the present time. The simple fact of 100 to 12 being offered on the field foretells a large number of chops and changes; and, whereas last year the favouritism of Humewood was soundly established a few days beforehand, the situation is now quite different. One of the latest moves on the board has been the knock-out of Kenilworth; and, although strenuous efforts will doubtless be made to restore him into the front rank, he has undeniably coughed more than once since his hurried arrival at Newmarket. The week opens to-morrow with a card composed of eight events, and the subscribers to the Trial Plate include Fullerton, Eiridspord, Braw Lass, Grafton, and Love-in-Idleness. Although the first-named trained off after his purchase in July by Lord Dudley, he is now reported to be going well, and this would afford a strong public trial for the Cambridgeshire, seeing that the conditions give him 7lb the worst of weight for age with Grafton, and twice as much with Love-in-Idleness. The ability of Braw Lass to stay the mile has yet to be demonstrated, and the verdict will rest, in my opinion, between Love-in-Idleness and Grafton. The cream of the entry for the Clearwell Stakes on public form are Donovan, El Dorado, and Gagoul, and next to them I may mention Swift, a half-brother to Isobar, who betrayed promise at Kempton Park in May, and Criniere. Unless the faith of Heath House is pinned to Melanion for the Middle Park Plate, we may not see DONOVAN, and in that case I should fall back upon his Goodwood conqueror, EL DORADO. The October Produce Stakes, which was walked over for last year by Disappointment, may on this occasion lead to a contest between ORMUZ, Pantomime, and Virgin Queen, and as the first-named gave a winning account of himself less than a fortnight ago, I shall stand by him here. Another event that collapsed last year was the Cadogan Plate, Kingwood, although getting much the worse for wear, having frightened away all opposition. Speed is now nicely represented by Fullerton, Bismarck, Noble Chieftain, Juggler, and Galore of the seniors, and by Sweetbriar, Amphion, and Paloma of the juniors. NOBLE CHIEFTAIN has escaped the penalty of 7lb which belongs amongst others to Sweetbriar, and, great as is my respect for this fleet-footed filly, I must own a greater liking for the chance of the three-year-old. In the Plate of 100 guineas, run over the last five furlongs of the Abingdon Mile, and confined to two-year-olds, WHITEHALL and POEM are a prominent pair, and the latter is also to be found in the Second October Nursery, together with Present Alms in the same ownership. This son of The Miser has not been on view for some time, and, looking to recent form, I shall with all her weight select PALOMA, who may have most to fear from YARD ARM if he is not held in reserve for the Severals Plate of the following day. HELMSLEY and UPSET are a likely pair to show in the Visitors' Plate, and for the First Welter Handicap commend me to RED PALMER or ISOSCELES.

The latest scratchings for the Cesarewitch include Tissaphernes, Clan Chattan, and Astrologer, and a smaller field by five or six will troop through the ditch on Tuesday than was expected at the beginning of last week. The veteran of the party is Tonans, five years having elapsed since he ran home fourth to Don Juan, Hackness, and Cosmos, a performance that he supplemented by finishing second to Bendigo for the Cambridgeshire. He is now a ten-year-old horse, and in point of age stands out alone, the nearest approach to him being Button Park and Oliver Twist, both five-year-olds. In connection with big handicaps there are invariably one or two additions or omissions at the eleventh hour, and it may be necessary overnight to slightly revise the following list of PROBABLE STARTERS AND JOCKEYS.

If Ténébreuse follows in the footsteps of Plaisanterie most of the winnings will be taken to France. The money sent from across the water has been chiefly instrumental in keeping her amongst the front rank, and even within the last few hours a marked recovery can be recorded, as at Epsom she was sharply opposed. From all that I can hear Ténébreuse goes to the post perfectly untried, and she must have been altogether out of sorts when sent over in the summer to qualify for nomination in the Cesarewitch, as she ran as bad as was possible, both in the Gold Vase and the Gold Cup at Ascot. Earlier in the year she had won the Prix Rainbow at Paris, in receipt of a stone from Upas, while last year six engagements out of seven fell to her share, amongst them being the Grand Prix de Paris, for which The Baron was second. Should Ténébreuse win, the handicapper will certainly be accused of taking too much cognisance of her English failures. Acme is not asked to establish a record in the strict sense of the word, as, although he will be carrying more than Robert the Devil and St. Gatien won under in '80 and '84 respectively, the original feather on this occasion was 5st 12lb, and the weights have since been raised 11lb. He only requires, therefore, to be a good colt in order to have a big chance, seeing that it has been again and again pointed out that a very moderate lot will go to the post. Acme has travelled far from smoothly in the quotations since Doncaster, and some of the Newmarket people are prejudiced against him from the belief that he will lack staying powers. In his case, as with many others, the old rule to try first and bet afterwards has been set aside, and if all one hears is true, his ability to last over the long and tiring course rests upon guess work. A trial with Grafton, or even with Governor Waller, would have been a guide; but, as it is, the four-year-old last named starts quite independent of Acme, and can be described as a substantially supported outsider. Governor Waller won over two miles of the course, when he defeated the moderate Eversfield by a neck last October, while this spring he went in for a different line of business, and one that does him more credit in the book, as, allowing for the inability of Prelude to fairly stay the Bretby Stakes Course, it was useful work for the "Governor" to beat him by a neck at 3lb. Phil will, unless I am mistaken, make a better fight in the Cambridgeshire than the Cesarewitch, and if the spoils of Tuesday are taken to Stanton, the instrument will be Polydor, a three-year-old filly who has been good throughout the piece. When finishing sixth and last in the Oaks she was said to be off her feed, and for her one and only public recommendation we must go back to last October, when, in the Houghton week, she carried off a Maiden Plate from Grafton and Surbiton. The recognised representatives of the Duke of Beaufort are Button Park and Rêve d'Or, who have not been tried together, for the simple reason that the Great Yorkshire Handicap hero is utterly unreliable in private. His defeat at Manchester in the week following the triumphant visit to the "Town Moor" counts for nothing, as the distance was only a mile, with Goldseeker in the field. I am inclined to think that he will be nearer to the winner than Rêve d'Or, whose task in the Triennial was insufficiently arduous to indicate beyond doubt her return to form. Oliver Twist never won last year except when much favoured in the weights, and there was a distinct improvement when this spring he landed the Northamptonshire Stakes from Decision and Abu Klea, and ran second to Fullerton for the City and Suburban. The report that he had hit his leg was without foundation, and he is expected to play a bold part in the black and white diamonds of Sir William Throckmorton. At the same time, I cannot see his chance of victory, and having passed over the slow, plodding Savile, the next pair on the list are Cotillon and Trayles. An arrangement to try the former the course unavoidably fell through, and, as regards the latter, he has been stopped three or four days with a swollen knee. Cotillon seemed to have all the makings of a useful colt when Mr. Rothschild bought him in the spring from Lord Lurgan, and no sooner had Captain Machell got hold of Trayles in the summer than he was marked out in many quarters as a second Humewood. From Doncaster time until he went amiss, reports of forestalment continually filled the air, and this is a pretty sure indication that Trayles was supposed to be above the common average of three-yr-olds. The fact of his being out on Saturday morning and afternoon proves that hope is not abandoned with Trayles, and should he show a clean bill of market health to-morrow, he might then win the Cesarewitch. Apart from his being none too sound, Ruddigore has never shown any form except in a "fluky" defeat of Kinsky, and I have a totally different opinion of Tonans, as, although well advanced in years for a racehorse, he looks very fresh, and will be much nearer the first horse than the last. Matin Bell need only be judged upon one out of her three races this year, as she was equally friendless in the Northamptonshire Stakes and the Ebor Handicap. Her intermediate performance was the capture of the Northumberland Plate, when Banter crossed his legs and fell a few strides from home, and left Bellatrix to finish third to the second of Tommy Tittlemouse. Easily as Matin Bell seems to have won she was in receipt of 10lb from Mr. Whipp's Old Slave, and if report speaks truly Mr. Perkins might not have run the filly had he not been annoyed with the rapid advancement of Kenilworth at Doncaster. Those who reckoned the latter a certainty, through Selby and Belle Mahone, have strong reasons for grumbling at the unwelcome turn in the tide of affairs, as, although the cough may not be a bad one, it seriously discounts his chance. Admiral Benbow and White Flag are both fancied by their owners in spite of adverse running, and Rhythm, who has superseded Tissaphernes, is being invested upon, both for a win and a place, with a freedom which suggests more than passing confidence. Thus I am inclined to include her with Tonans as the two best outsiders, while looking to Acme, Button Park, Trayles, and Polydor of the front division. The next four-and-twenty hours may bring about several revolutions, and, in the meanwhile, my vote shall be split between although I may have to-morrow night to substitute TRAYLES for one of them. The remainder of the programme must be hurried over, and leaving the Severals Plate to GULBEYAZ and YARD ARM, and the Royal Stakes to OSSORY, I may pass on to Wednesday, when the Middle Park Plate claims priority. Although Ben Strome failed to answer in the affirmative the question that was asked of him last week, he is intended to make his début, and Kingsclere will supply two additional starters in Gay Hampton and Miguel. The Duke of Portland has a couple to choose from in Donovan and Melanion, and others likely to enter the lists for the two-year-old Derby are Antibes, Quartus, Clover, an importation from France, temporarily trained by young Tom Jennings; Enthusiast, a dark brother to Energy; and Editha. One and all of these would have gone down before Chitabob had he been well, and, as it is, DONOVAN ought to win, providing that he does not make room for Melanion, who appeared to lack stamina when he opened his public career in the Lancashire Plate. On Thursday the Champion Stakes stands first in order, and it can be taken for granted that Minting will not go to the post if unable to do his reputation justice. Friar's Balsam has already arrived at "head-quarters" to oppose him, and I have been told on fair authority that the Cambridgeshire favourite, Mamia, will likewise join issue. This does not seem to be good policy, as, even should MINTING be missing, Friar's Balsam would be quite capable of taking care of the remainder. SEABREEZE will swell her autumn triumphs in the Newmarket Oaks, and on Friday SHEEN can be reckoned with for the Newmarket Derby, SANDAL (in the absence only of Minting) for the Great Challenge Stakes, EL DORADO or GAGOUL for the Prendergast Stakes, and THE COB for the Challenge Whip.

Sunday Night. HOTSPUR.

LONDON BETTING—SATURDAY.

A fair amount of speculation took place in town to-day upon the Cesarewitch, for which the market opened at 9 to 1 on the field. This price was eventually accepted about both Acme and Polydor, and 10 to 1 was offered about Ténébreuse. A reaction soon set in, and the latter was quickly installed favourite, in fact, she jumped to 8 to 1, a price taken to £200, but eventually obtainable on the field. Acme then remained stationary at 9 to 1, but 10 to 1 was finally betted against Polydor. Trayles at one time was friendless at 100 to 8, but left off firm at a point less; and Button Park and Rêve d'Or respectively found friends at 100 to 8 and 100 to 7. Matin Bell was quiet at 100 to 6, but Rhythm was freely supported at 20 to 1, a price offered against Tonans, who was backed coupled with Cotillon for £300 at 20 to 1. Separately, Cotillon was supported at 1000 to 45, a price taken about Oliver Twist; and after 1000 to 40 had been betted against Kenilworth, 20 to 1 proved the best offer. Of the next division, Governor Waller found most friends at 22 to 1, and Ruddigore retired to 40 to 1. Very little was doing on the Cambridgeshire, for which 100 to 14 was offered against Mamia. Phil seemed good business at 20 to 1, and 25 to 1 was offered against Danbydale. Prices:

NATIONAL CYCLISTS' UNION.

Kennington Oval was extremely well patronised on Saturday afternoon last, on the occasion of the benefit meeting given to the above Union. Some time ago it transpired that the Union had sustained heavy losses, and a committee was formed for the purpose of assisting them in their difficulties. In order to be able to hand over as much as possible a guarantee fund was created, which it is expected will be enough to pay for the expenses of the meeting, as only certificates were granted. The outcome of the committee meetings was the benefit accorded to the Union on Saturday, and a better attendance could not have been wished for, close upon 6,000 persons being present. It is expected that nearly £300 will be handed over as the result of the benefit. A programme had been provided, consisting of seven events, the entries numbering 217, in addition to which a One Mile Match was decided between the well-known cycling cracks, H. Synyer, Boulevard C.C., Nottingham, and Fred. J. Osmond, Brixton Ramblers C.C. Owing to a mishap to Synyer's machine the race was run off the second time, but the affair created little excitement, as on each occasion the riders waited on one another for more than half way, when Osmond made his effort and shot to the front. Synyer, however, half a lap from home put on a grand spurt, and coming right away won by a length. In the final of the One Mile Safety Bicycle Handicap Hale won a grand race by half a length, the others being close up. In the Mile Tricycle Handicap, A. E. Langley, of the Kildare B.C., from scratch, beat a host of competitors. The Mile Running Handicap drew but three runners out of a dozen entries; but this may be accounted for by the fact that it was the opening day of the cross-country season, and also several other athletic meetings. At the close the prize certificates were presented by Lieutenant-Colonel A. R. Savile. Results:

One Mile Match, on Ordinary Bicycles.—Herbert Synyer, Notts Boulevard C.C., one and five miles bicycle amateur champion, 1888, beat F. J. Osmond, Brixton Ramblers B.C. and Norwood Safety B.C., five miles tricycle amateur champion, holder of all British amateur bicycle records from quarter mile to ten miles. This event was run over twice. In the first race waiting tactics were adopted until a lap from home, when Osmond made his effort, and led for some distance, until it was seen that something had gone wrong with Synyer's machine, he having pulled up. It appeared that one of the spokes had broken. Osmond agreed to run again in half an hour. The second time, after waiting on one another as before, Osmond shot ahead, but Synyer, putting on a grand spurt, went to the front, and won by a good length. Time, 3min 25 4-5sec.

FOOTBALL.

THE NEW ZEALAND FOOTBALL TEAM v. NORTHAMPTONSHIRE.

This match was decided at the Franklin Gardens, Northampton, on Saturday afternoon, and ended in favour of the Colonists by 2 goals 4 tries and 3 minors to nil. Quite 3,000 spectators witnessed the game, which throughout was all in favour of the visitors. Rutterford for the county kicked off; but it was not long before Keogh ran in from the home 25. M'Causland failed to negotiate the point. Madigan soon added another try, from which a goal was kicked, the score at half-time being New Zealanders 1 goal 1 try to nil. On changing ends the Colonists again showed their superiority, Elliott scoring twice, whilst Karauria and Madigan also obtained a try each. Although the weather was cold, great interest was centred in the match, the final score being—New Zealanders, 2 goals 4 tries and 3 minors to nil. Teams:

New Zealanders: D. Gage (Wellington) (back), W. Wynyard (North Shore), E. M'Causland (Gordon, Auckland) (captain), and C. Madigan (Grafton Bay) (three-quarter backs), J. Keogh (Dunedin), Ihimaira (Hawke's Bay), and W. Elliott (Grafton, Auckland) (half-backs), T. Ellison (Poneke, Wellington), W. Wynyard (Takapuna), R. Maynard (North Shore), Arthur Warbrick (East Coast), H. Lee (Riverton), A. Webster (Hokanga), R. Taiaroa (Dunedin), and W. Karauria (Hawke's Bay) (forwards).

Northamptonshire—A. Robinson (Northampton St. James) (back), G. S. Mason (Rushden), F. Mead, and C. Stanley (Northampton St. James) (three-quarter backs), J. Cockle (Northampton St. James) and W. Burgess (Rushden) (half-backs), F. Joyce, W. Lilley (Kettering), Rutterford (Hanslope), W. Williams and L. Bellchambers (St. James), F. Rhodes, T. P. Richards, and R. Evans (Rushden) (forwards).

THE FOOTBALL LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIP.

The following are the results of Saturday's matches in this competition:

Preston North End v. Stoke.—Played at Deepdale, before 4,000 spectators. Stoke were out-classed at every point, Preston North End eventually winning by seven goals to nil.

Everton v. Aston Villa.—These clubs met at Everton before 10,000 spectators. A closely-contested game, Everton gaining the victory by two goals to none.

Accrington v. Wolverhampton Wanderers.—Played at Accrington, before a large assemblage, resulting in a draw, both sides having scored four goals each.

West Bromwich Albion v. Derby County.—The teams met at West Bromwich. The home players, having all their own way, won by five goals to love.

Burnley v. Bolton Wanderers.—Played at Burnley. The visitors were outclassed in every way, and failed to score, the result being Burnley four to nil.

Notts County v. Blackburn Rovers.—Played at Trent Bridge, Nottingham. The game was stubbornly contested, and at the close the result was a draw of three goals each.

ASSOCIATION CHALLENGE CUP.

Saturday last was fixed for the decision of the first round of ties in the qualifying competition for the Football Association Challenge Cup, the rounds of which have to be played on fixed Saturdays, instead of at the convenience of clubs, as hitherto. There are ten vacancies for places in the second competition, and the clubs in each of the ten divisions formed by the Association will compete with one another until only one is left in each. The matches on Saturday were, as a rule, only of minor importance, but among the clubs who have fallen victims must be noted Stoke, who were beaten by Warwickshire on their own ground by two goals to one; the Old Etonians, who went down before Maidenhead by four goals to none; the Royal Engineers, who suffered defeat from the Crusaders at Leyton by five to none; and the crushing defeat of thirteen to love by the London Caledonians on Dulwich at the latter's ground.

BILLIARDS.

W. J. PEALL v. W. MITCHELL.—These professionals should have concluded their match of 15,000 up, all in, at the Aquarium, on Saturday, but so well did Peall play in the evening, after being left behind in the afternoon, that midnight arrived without Mitchell having reached the desired goal. Throughout the week the pair have kept on pretty level terms. Mitchell, after adding another thousand to his start, was caught on Thursday night, but he managed to draw away again slightly, and on Friday evening they left off with the scores as follows: Mitchell 12,122, Peall 12,282. On Saturday afternoon Peall only made one break of three figures, viz., 171, whilst Mitchell contributed 150, 161, 420, and 565, having aggregated 1,511 to his opponent's 256. Continuing in good form, Mitchell, in the evening, added 417, 112, 155, and 197 to his figures, and the match looked like concluding about half-past ten o'clock. Peall, however, made a succession of fine breaks, including 424, 136, 367, 163, and 475 (unfinished), and he was still in play at midnight. Of course the game was stopped, and it was arranged to continue to-day at two o'clock, prior to the match between Cook and M'Neill. Present scores: Peall (in play, on the spot), 14,332; Mitchell, 14,513. The latter only requires 487 points to win.

THE LONDON TRAGEDIES.

Very little further progress has been made since Saturday in ascertaining the identity of the young woman whose dismembered body was found in the basement archways of the new police buildings at Whitehall. The period within which the crime was committed has been narrowed down, and the district within which it was perpetrated has also been more clearly marked. It will be recollected that Detective-Inspector Marshall proceeded on Friday to bring the remains of a supposed human leg from Guildford, which was found there by the police on Aug. 24 last. The limb in question was, it is said, pronounced by a local doctor to have been unskilfully amputated, and there was a belief in the neighbourhood that it was part of some person who had been made away with. Ultimately the Guildford police, being unable to glean any information pointing to the commission of a felony, the leg was buried in the churchyard with the customary formalities. The discovery of the woman's trunk at Westminster at once led the Guildford authorities to communicate with Scotland-yard, and, as stated, Inspector Marshall was sent to have the limb disinterred. Every precaution, as usual under like circumstances, was taken to reopen the grave, and the inspector, with the remains encased in an air-tight box, returned with it to London. It was taken to Millbank-street Mortuary, to be compared with the other portions of the victim's body. On Saturday Drs. Bond and Hibbert made an examination, and at once pronounced it to be that not of a human being, but of some four-footed animal. Finally, they were able to declare it was that of a common bear. It now appears that some time ago a gentleman near Guildford had a portion of a fine bear sent to him from Russia, which he cooked, but was unable to eat, and therefore threw the limb away.

With reference to the proposal of using bloodhounds in London, the idea is generally scouted as of little or no practical value by those who know anything about these animals. The first difficulty in using them will, it is said, be to get them laid on the right scent, and once that is done there is the thousand and one cross scents that will run over the track, so that there can be no assurance of their following the same person up. Again, the streets offer the facilities to criminals of getting away in vehicles, 'buses, and trams, and there are the railways to be reckoned with.

Throughout the City great watchfulness is maintained by the police, who express the utmost confidence that a recurrence of the horrible tragedies of a week ago without detection is impossible within the limited area over which they have jurisdiction. No further arrests have been made, and no additional information of value has been obtained.

The body of the Mitre-square victim—Catherine Eddowes, alias Conway, alias Kelly—still lies in the City Mortuary, Golden-lane. At half-past one o'clock to-day it will be removed for burial in the Ilford Cemetery.

Extraordinary precautions were taken in the Whitechapel district on Saturday night and last night in view of the possible reappearance of the murderer, but his whereabouts remains unascertained. Volunteers turned out in considerable numbers to assist the police, and patrolled the streets until an early hour in the morning, but they were destined to return to their homes without reward for their valour. Although a large number of police and detectives have been drawn to the East-end from other districts, it must not be supposed that the safety of other parts of the metropolis is disregarded. So far as the number of the force will permit, special attention is being given to all spots where the murderer is at all likely to attempt a renewal of his crime. The parks are being closely watched.

The following letter from the Home Secretary has been received by the president of the Whitechapel Vigilance Committee:

"Whitehall, Oct. 6, 1888.

"Sir—The Secretary of State for the Home Department has had the honour to lay before the Queen the petition signed by you, praying that a reward may be offered by the Government for the discovery of the perpetrator of the recent murders in Whitechapel, and he desires me to inform you that, though he has given directions that no effort or expense should be spared in endeavouring to discover the person guilty of the murders, he has not been able to advise her Majesty that in his belief the ends of justice would be promoted by any departure from the direction already announced with regard to the proposal that a reward should be offered by Government.—I am, sir, your obedient servant,

"E. Leigh Pemberton."

The gentleman to whom the above reply was addressed—Mr. George Lusk, of Alderney-street, Globe-street, Mile-end—has given information of a suspicious incident which befell him on Thursday afternoon last. A stranger, who called at his private residence shortly after four o'clock, and who was informed that Mr. Lusk was not at home, appears to have traced the President of the Vigilance Committee to an adjacent tavern. Having manifested great interest in the movements of the volunteer police, he sought an interview in a private room, but owing to the forbidding appearance of the visitor Mr. Lusk seems to have preferred the comparative publicity of the bar parlour. The conversation had scarcely begun, when Mr. Lusk, who was about to pick up a pencil which had dropped from the table, says he noticed the stranger "make a swift though silent movement with his right hand towards his side pocket." Fearing that his conduct was observed, it is added, the man asked to be directed to the nearest coffee-house, and forthwith proceeded to an address in the Mile End-road with which he was supplied. Although Mr. Lusk followed without loss of time, he was not quick enough for his visitor, who abstained from visiting the coffee-house, and has not been heard of since. The man is described as between thirty and forty years of age, about 5ft 9in in height, of a florid complexion, with bushy brown beard, whiskers, and moustache. In the absence of further evidence it is impossible to say whether any personal injury was actually in store for the head of the "Vigilants," but the ease with which the man escaped has awakened the members of the committee and their colleagues to an increased sense of the difficulty of the task they have in hand.

Communications from all parts of the country, in ever-varying handwritings, signed "Jack the Ripper," continue to be received in large numbers by the East-end police, and it is obvious that the vast majority of them are forwarded in joke. That a telegram, however, bearing the same signature should be accepted and despatched by the postal authorities without the sender being detained or even watched has naturally caused some astonishment. We are informed that on Friday night the following telegraphic message, transmitted from the chief office of the eastern district in Commercial-road, was received at Scotland-yard: "Charles Warren, head of the Police News, Central Office.—Dear Boss—If you are willing enough to catch me, I am now in City-road, lodging, but number you will have to find out, and I mean to do another murder to-night in Whitechapel.—Yours, Jack the Ripper." The circumstances under which the telegram was sent are the subject of police investigation.

An extraordinary statement bearing upon the Whitechapel tragedies was made to the Cardiff police yesterday by a respectable-looking elderly woman, who stated that she was a "Spiritualist," and in company with five other persons held a séance on Saturday night. They summoned the spirit of Elizabeth Stride, and after some delay it came, and, in answer to questions, stated that her murderer was a middle-aged man whose name she mentioned, and who resided at a given number in Commercial-road or street, Whitechapel, and who belonged to a gang of twelve.

[Reuter's Telegram.]

New York, Oct. 6.—The New York Herald declares that the seaman named Dodge, who recently stated that a Malay whom he met in London threatened to murder a number of Whitechapel women for robbing him, said that he knew the street where the Malay stayed, but that he would not divulge the name until he learned what chance there was of a reward. He stated however that the street was not far from the East India Dock-road, but he was not certain about the house where the man lived.

Another seaman said he thought the Malay was now on a vessel plying in the North Sea.

Vigilance Society.—A circular, signed by the Duke of Westminster, the Earl of Meath, and Sir Robert N. Fowler, has been addressed from the Central Vigilance Society for the Repression of Immorality to various persons who are interested in the forthcoming "elections to municipal offices," with the view of enlisting their co-operation and authority in the prosecution of immorality and those who foster and encourage it in any form. It is pointed out that "hitherto there has not been any general effort for repression and prevention, and interference has been too often limited to the abatement of the nuisance, where it has become too open, by simply driving the perpetrators out of the district, rather than extended to such a punishment as may deter them from a repetition of the offence elsewhere. Thus, by leaving them to renew their misconduct in other localities the authorities have incurred a tedious repetition of the process, oftentimes ending in the return of the offenders to their original haunts." The present desire is to direct attention to the serious nature of the evil which prevails and to express a hope that, in seeking election to positions of local power, candidates will bring this matter prominently to the notice of electors, and in so doing receive their mandate that it shall not continue.

Fish Culture.—The annual distribution of trout and coarse fish is now being made at the Midland Counties Fish Culture Establishment, Malvern Wells and London, and consignments have been sent to Kent, Sussex, Devonshire, and North Wales, besides various parts of the Midlands. Many of the trout hatched this year are 6in. long, which is an extraordinary growth.

PARIS FASHIONS.

[From a Correspondent.]

Few people prefer winter to summer, and when it is a question of purchasing new clothes we would all far rather it were the light, dainty costumes of July than the sombre attire of December. Winter raiment costs far more than that of summer, so that those who have only moderate dress allowances at their command generally look forward with some dismay to the last quarter of the year. Winter toilettes are not only the most expensive, the choosing thereof gives more trouble; while upon the whole they are less satisfactory. Not but what a dainty female figure, clad in dark materials rich in tone, with plenty of good fur about it, the elegant little edifice crowned by a becoming hat or bonnet, is a pleasant sight for sore 'een. The great difficulty is to vary the winter costumes, to get something one has not worn before; for, although each season brings hosts of soi disant novelties in its train, there is always a certain amount of sameness in the stuffs provided, especially those made of woollen. The list of colours is necessarily restricted to neutrals and the darker shades of positive colours, and even in the trimmings bright tints can only be employed in very small quantities. This year I think we may safely say fashion has treated us well in most respects. It has not left us with a scanty choice between plain surfaces and simple unassuming patterns that never rise above the dead level of the morning trotteuse (the former needing braiding or otherwise ornamenting to give them a cachet of elegance), it provides us magnificently with a crowd of most handsome materials quite able to stand alone—not in the usual meaning of the word, for they are soft and supple, but without additional trimming. There are all-wool fabrics, with wide borders woven so as to imitate the most delicate braiding or the richest Oriental embroidery. Of course, the costumes are designed so as to set this off to advantage, and frequently the simplest way is the best. Thus, bronze-brown cashmire, woven with a border more than half a yard deep—a shawl-pattern composed of two or three colours—is made up into a simple skirt full enough to be mounted in shallow pleats to the waist, or, if preferred, gathered honeycomb fashion across the front and over the hips, and merely pleated at the back. It goes without saying that such a skirt must have a foundation, and this reminds me that, if a woman would be considered an élégante in the eyes of her compeers, she must confine herself exclusively to silk foundations. Not the eye, but the ear, detects their presence. The unsophisticated reader may smile incredulously; nevertheless it is a fact that one woman in taking stock of another, nowadays, is careful to note whether or no the swish-swish of silk accompanies her movements to and fro, and hardly any amount of visible recherchéness of costume will compensate for tell-tale silence. To return to our muttons. For this particular gown, I am certainly an advocate of the honeycomb gathers, as they harmonise with the bodice, which is gathered or "smocked" over the shoulders, so as to form a yoke, and again at the waist, both back and front, with an interval in the centre for the introduction of a narrow velvet plastron, finished off in a point at the bottom, and sewn in at the top into the round velvet collar that completes the bodice round the throat. The material of which the bodice and sleeves are made is plain, the latter being nearly tight-fitting to the elbow, and cut wide enough below to admit of their being gathered into a smocked cuff. A wide scarf encircles the waist, and is tied, once, loosely in front. This scarf may be of the cashmire itself, when it would be sewn double, and the palm-woven pattern furnish a trimming for the ends—with the addition of fringe. A soft silk scarf, chosen to match one or other of the colours of the material, would, however, render it much more dressy.

Somewhat similar to the preceding is the full-bodiced redingote costume, very applicable to travelling. It is made of thin ladies' cloth, decorated with a woven border. There is an underskirt, but it is entirely concealed, the coat being fastened all the way down. Before cutting out the skirt the border must be taken off, as it will be required to trim the bottom edge of the coat. The length of material sold for this costume includes decorative pieces for a yoke and a narrow band of ornament for the collar, cuffs, and belt. Both the fronts and back of the redingote are gathered into the yoke, while the extra fulness is drawn in at the waist beneath two segments of a belt, that behind being put on like the pattes at the back of a French military capote, and that in front in an obtuse angle. As for the sleeve it is sewn plainly into the armhole and full round the wrist, a little embroidered cuff being turned back over it.

Redingotes will only set well if cut on the right way of the stuff; and, moreover, the width is seldom sufficient for the length of such a garment. Tunics, however, and skirts really fall quite as gracefully made up on the cross-way of the material, and it is decidedly an improvement to get rid of all the seams—always unsightly, and demanding very careful manipulation—save one hidden in the fulness behind. So long as there is a foundation on which to mount a skirt, the balance is rather in favour of the material placed selvedge downwards; but the tissue of which the substrata is composed must be cut up into breadths, and made up after the old method. In some cases the new woollens appear in divisions of two shades, each division measuring about half a yard. The effect is both novel and peculiar. One of the new models exhibited by a first-rate dressmaker is composed of serge in two shades of green—"fir" and "mignonette"—with a woven band of red cutting the green divisions at right angles. The gown consists of a plain skirt and long tunic open on one side, each cut in a single piece, so that the red band shall come in as a border for the hemmed edges. In front the tunic is draped en tablier. A simple but very becoming form of bodice, now in high favour, completes the gown; the back and side pieces are tight-fitting, the front full, the latter—which alone is of the lighter shade—being framed in with two bands of red, and the waist and throat encircled with the same. Belts are no longer made of a straight piece, but curved so that they can be drawn a little below the waist in front—a fashion which renders them much more generally becoming than they used to be. With a view to this the band prepared for the belt is woven in the shape of a crescent.

Wide-pointed belts in velvet look very well in combination with a bodice that fits smoothly over the bust and is gathered into the waist. It is quite possible to make bodies of this sort appear quite as dressy as if they were actually tight-fitting. I have seen them cut down in a point in front and behind so as to allow of the introduction of a velvet plastron, and robes à disposition may be found supplied with the necessary amount of decoration—to frame in such points—woven in the material itself. There would also doubtless be a round collar to correspond, besides of course a wide band for edging the skirt or skirts, single ones being still looked upon as a slight eccentricity not compatible with the smartest attire. A type of dress likely to be patronised largely has a double skirt bordered with a deep band of velvet. The two are made equally long, but the upper one is tucked up to the hips so as to leave about a quarter of a yard of the under one visible on both sides. If the material chosen be plain cloth, it is a great improvement to braid it in arabesques above the bands of velvet. Woollens, with fancy-wove borders, may be treated in the same way, the velvet serving to throw up the design and give solidity to the bottom of the skirts.

Other costumes equally new and pretty are made with a Spencer bodice, worn open, and shaped very much like the jacket of an Eton suit. The Spencer fits jauntily to the figure, though detached from the vest or waistcoat. Behind it is generally cut off at the waist, but sometimes the back pieces are in one with the back breadths, when it becomes a sort of redingote. As for the bodice-front, with which the Spencer must needs be supplemented, it is made in a variety of ways, and may either be a full chemisette, gathered in by a belt, or a tight-fitting tailor-made waistcoat, fastened with a row of small fancy buttons. Moreover, it is now and again cut in one with the front breadths of the skirt or tunic, in which case it is suggestive of a girl's apron—to borrow another comparison from the school-room. In the same way redingotes with very narrow fronts are combined with an under-dress pleated from the throat, and confined at the waist by a wide silk scarf or pointed belt.

Perhaps the greatest novelty of all is the Louis XV. jacket, so fashionable some years ago. The reader may or may not recall the garment in question, therefore it is safer to describe it. After all but meeting over the bust, it is cut away slantingly, so that the long point of the basques hangs just in front of the hip. At the back it is very short indeed, hardly reaching two inches below the waist line. Waistcoats of the same period are worn with it, buttoned down to the waist only, and finished off with long square basques. Nor is this all; over the waistcoat is bound a wide silk scarf, knotted in front. For the rest, the costume is executed in woollen, more often than not plain, and braided or trimmed with passamenterie. This style of bodice requires plain sleeves, and the more closely they mould the arm the better; whereas the Spencer-bodice has generally a sleeve set very high and rather full on the shoulder, the upper side being frequently slightly gathered upon the under piece at the seams, so as to puff it up still more; and the redingote will have puffed or slashed sleeves. As for those that are adapted to some of the more eccentric of the Directoire and Empire bodices, I should be sorry to recommend them; they are not only ugly in themselves, but they give the wearer a dowdy appearance. Imagine a full puffing reaching halfway down the upper arm, adapted to a bishop's sleeve gathered in at the wrist! With other sleeves these bodices would be pretty enough. The fronts are shaped like a long-basqued waistcoat, while the backs are cut off short to the waist, around which is folded an extremely wide scarf, tied at the back in a double bow, and long ends that serve as a decoration for the otherwise plain skirt. Figured woollens are generally chosen for this species of gown, patterns of a quaint description to be preferred.

Dressmakers seem to have made up their minds to attire their customers in as picturesque and unconventional a manner as possible this season, borrowing the styles of the latter half of the eighteenth century, those of the Empire period, and sometimes the rather stiff fashions of the Restoration, applying them not only to evening dresses and rich silken materials, but also—as we have seen—to everyday garb and fabrics woven in homely wool.

Jewel Robbery in Edinburgh.—The jewels stolen and so promptly and ably recovered by Captain Henderson and his detectives were the property of Lady Alexandrina Vane-Tempest, daughter of the Marchioness (Dowager) of Londonderry.

Suicide and Attempted Murder.—The inquest upon the body of Elizabeth Bloxam, who had committed suicide by taking carbolic acid, a dose of which she had also administered to her son Frederick, aged four years, was concluded at the St. Pancras Coroner's Court, on Saturday. Deceased was the wife of a warehouseman, and she was twenty-four years of age. Since her confinement, in August last, she had been very depressed. On Tuesday last a Mrs. Caroline Reed called to see her at 46, Georgiana-street, Camden Town, when it was found that she had poisoned herself by taking carbolic acid. The little boy Frederick was lying by her side suffering from the effects of the same poison, which had been administered to him by his mother. A verdict of suicide whilst in an unsound state of mind was returned. It was stated that the boy is recovering.

GERMAN COURT AND POLITICS.

[Telegram from our Correspondent.]

Berlin, Oct. 7.

Kaiserin Augusta Victoria returned to Potsdam from Primkenau yesterday with her five sons.

Kaiserin Friedrich will remain another week at Kiel, as Prince Henry leaves for Rome on the 9th inst. Her Majesty will therefore prolong her visit to her daughter-in-law, and only reach Berlin in time for the ceremony of laying the foundation-stone of the Kaiser Friedrich's Mausoleum at Potsdam.

Sir E. Malet leaves Berlin on Tuesday or Wednesday for England for a couple of weeks.

The French Ambassador has returned to this capital for a short time.

In general the Diplomatic Corps is still very sparsely represented.

Count Douglas delivered an extremely interesting election speech, which contained many references to the Emperor William, of whom he is the personal friend, the other day at Ascherleben. It has been published under the title "What we may hope from our Kaiser." I draw your attention to it because it is highly important that his Majesty's character should be properly estimated in England. He possesses so many attributes that would make him popular with everybody in the British Empire that my countrymen may well learn something about him before he sets foot on Albion's shores. The time for the Kaiser's journey to England has not yet been fixed definitely, but I am given to understand that, as his Majesty's engagements on the Continent are likely to take up all his time far into Winter, he can hardly visit his august relations in England before Easter, so that he may be expected there during the London Season. Various matters have made certain people in England spread rumours of an unfavourable kind about Kaiser Wilhelm's sentiments towards the United Kingdom. I happen to know on very high authority that the German Monarch entertains very friendly feelings towards England. Has he not taken every opportunity of displaying these sentiments throughout the Summer? The British officers who were specially invited by his Majesty to the Manœuvres received every attention, and they were the only foreign military representatives thus singled out. This is relative to his personal feeling towards the country, but politically the two Governments have never been on better terms. Their relations to one another are extremely cordial and confidential. Even Prince Bismarck's words are not to be taken too literally. When regretting in conversation the other day with a very well-informed politician that the Chancellor so often made such baseless and impolitic attacks against our Royal Family, my informant said: "You must not attribute that to hatred of England. I assure you that if Prince Bismarck could induce England to join the Triple Alliance he would look upon that success as the crowning act of his political life." If these strong words were only meant as a compliment they at least show which way the wind blows.

Berlin, Oct. 7.—The International Bank of Berlin was founded to-day with a capital of 20,000,000 marks (£1,000,000). The new institution will absorb the banking business of Messrs J. T. Goldberger, without, however, taking over the liabilities. The board of directors includes Herr Goldberger, the Belgian Consul-General, and Herr Rudolf Dessauer, manager of the banking-house of Messrs. Rothschild in Vienna. The third member of the board has not yet been appointed. The presidents of the committee of trustees are Herr Sigismund Born, Herr Goldberger, and Herr Kieschke, and its members include Herr Hofmann (Minister of State), Herr Pollack, Herr von Borkemann, Herr Schlesinger, of Vienna, and Herr Papadacki (Bank Director of Paris). The shares of the new bank are taken up by the heads of the firm of Goldberger, Born, and Busse, of Berlin, and by a syndicate including the Vereinsbank, Frankfort-on-the-Main, Messrs. Simon, of Königsberg, the Lower Austrian Discount Company, the Anglo-Austrian Bank in Vienna, the Austro-Hungarian Commercial Bank, the Bank of Constantinople in Paris, Messrs. Guensburg, of St. Petersburg, the Provent Handelsbank of St. Petersburg, Messrs. Wertheim and Gomperts, of Amsterdam, and the Bank of Winterthur.

It is expected here that a committee will shortly be formed in Austria to act in conjunction with the German committee of the Emin Pasha Relief Expedition.

FIGHTING ON THE "BLACK-MOUNTAIN."

[Reuter's Telegrams.]

Simla, Oct. 6 (3.0 p.m.)

A telegram received here to-day announces that Colonel A. C. Crookshank, commanding the fourth column of General M'Queen's expedition, was severely wounded while making a reconnaissance.

The third column of the expedition has occupied the crest of the "Black-Mountain," after a slight skirmish with the enemy, in which three men of the Sussex Regiment and two Sepoys were wounded.

Simla, Oct. 7 (7.52 p.m.)

According to the latest despatches from General M'Queen's Expedition, the first column now holds Chittabut, on the crest of the "Black-Mountain." The second column has moved to Barchar, and will camp there. The third column advanced yesterday from Akhund, on the crest of the Mountain, to Karun, on its western slope. The enemy burned the villages on the line of advance, and some guerilla fighting took place, in which one Sepoy was killed and five Sepoys and three men of the Sussex Regiment were wounded.

The column found the country very difficult and water scarce, and is therefore returning to the crest. It is not expected that it will be able to make a fresh advance in the direction of the fourth column for two or three days, when a road will have been cut through the forest.

The fourth column is still at Kotkai on the Indus, and is being harassed by the enemy from the opposite bank. The troops are collecting bridge material, and will probably cross the river in order to attack the enemy.

Mr. F. Crookshank telegraphed last evening from Brighton: "Message received to-day from Viceroy states, Colonel Crookshank, C.B., doing well."

Captain Beley, of the Bengal Native Infantry, who has been reported as killed in the fighting on the 5th inst. in the Black Mountain operations, was formerly an officer of the Royal Scots Regiment, has served in the Indian Intelligence Department, and was thirty-five years of age.

Lieutenant Radford, of the Punjaub Infantry, reported wounded, was originally in the King's Own Scottish Borderers, and was in the Jowaki and Afghan Campaigns; and Lieutenant F. J. Cleeve, also wounded, belongs to the 1st Brigade Scottish Division Royal Artillery.

UNITED STATES.

[Reuter's Telegrams.]

New York, Oct. 6.—The Pioneer Press, a newspaper published in St. Paul, Minnesota, estimates from circulars received from a hundred places that the decrease in this year's wheat crop in the North-West as compared with 1887 will amount to 40 per cent.

The Tammany Hall Democrats held a meeting last night at which they nominated Mr. Grant, at present Sheriff of New York, as their candidate for the Mayoralty.

New York, Oct. 7.—The county Democracy has nominated Mr. Hewitt, for the post of Mayor of New York.

Jacksonville, Oct. 6.—During the twenty-four hours ending this evening there have been eighty-one fresh cases of yellow fever and five deaths.

A Reuter's telegram, dated The Hague, Oct. 6, states: "There is no foundation for the alarming despatch published by the Paris Dix Neuvième Siècle, announcing a serious change for the worse in the King's condition, which, on the contrary, has during the last few days been fairly satisfactory.

Coast Defence.—It has been decided at the War Office that the officers in charge of Royal Artillery round the coast shall be furnished with maps of the coast and country around the principal fortifications, on a scale of at least 1in to a mile, the maps to be retained in their possession, and regarded as strictly confidential. The maps will have the forts and the ranges of their guns shown, and are intended for use in the general arrangement for coast defence.

Greek Portraiture.—In reference to some comments made upon his recent lecture at the Birkbeck Institution on the subject of portraiture Mr. Harry Furniss writes to correct the impression that he had omitted the legend of the daughter of Dibutades. "In point of fact," he says, "not only did I give the story at length, but I reproduced on the screen Mortimer's well-known picture of the incident."

THE EUROPEAN SITUATION.

[Telegram from our Correspondent.]

Vienna, Oct. 7.

The Russian mission for Abyssinia started for its destination on the first of this month. It consists of fifteen persons, with an Archmandrite at their head. The mission settlement will be called "Moscow," and will contain an Orthodox Church, for which the sacred emblems and ornaments have already been sent off.

The avowed object of the mission is to establish closer bonds of friendship between Russia and Abyssinia, though nobody gifted with average common sense can be mistaken as to the sinister significance of this fresh stroke of Muscovite diplomacy.

[Reuter's Telegram.]

St. Petersburg, Oct. 6.

A feeling of disappointment is apparent in the Russian press owing to the tone of the speeches of the German and Austrian Emperors at the banquet in Vienna on Thursday last. It was hoped that the Emperor William being animated by sincerely pacific sentiments, and being also fully aware that Russia entertained similar intentions, their Majesties would have given utterance to declarations foreshadowing some effective action on the part of Germany for removing the existing difficulties in the international situation by granting satisfaction to the legitimate claims of Russia in regard to the Bulgarian question; and regret is expressed at the military character of the speeches, as tending to bring about troubles in the future rather than the looked for improvement in the present state of affairs.

GERMANY AND THE PACIFIC.

[Reuter's Telegram.]

Berlin, Oct. 6.

The semi-official North German Gazette to-day, referring to the recent announcement that Admiral Fairfax, the British Commander-in-Chief on the Pacific station, while on his voyage from Tonga to the Samoan Islands, intended to call at Savage Island in order to establish a British Protectorate there in compliance with the request of the natives, says:

"We are unaware whether the natives sought a British Protectorate, but the British Government is certainly not in a position to assume the Protectorate over Savage Island, since, in virtue of the Anglo-German agreement of April 6, 1886—relating to the respective spheres of influence of England and Germany in the Pacific—that island is declared neutral territory."

THE LOST ENGLISH TOURISTS.

[Reuter's Telegram.]

Tiflis, Oct. 7.

Intelligence received here announces that Mr. W. F. Donkin and Mr. Fox, the Missing English tourists, were lost with their two guides on the glaciers of Mount Kaschtantau, but that nothing positive is known as to their fate.

Mr. Oulle (?), another tourist, has arrived here to organise a search for the missing party.

BRITISH EAST AFRICAN COMPANY.

[Reuter's Telegrams.]

Zanzibar, Oct. 6.—The steamship Kistna arrived here to-day with Mr. George S. Mackenzie and party on board, representing the Imperial British East African Company. They have been cordially received at Mombasa by the Luvati natives.

Zanzibar, Oct. 7.—Mr. George S. Mackenzie reports that he stayed one day at Mombasa on his way here to present the Sultan in person with his credentials, as the representative of the British East African Company. He intends to return to Mombasa this week to assume charge of the coast-ports embraced in the English concession. During his stay at Mombasa he visited the town thoroughly, and made himself known everywhere, obtaining the fullest information from the natives, who gave it freely on all points in reference to which he made inquiries, notwithstanding the excitement prevailing in consequence of the conflict between the employés of the German company and the natives at the Southern ports, which the representative chiefs of several inland tribes publicly discussed with him in the Bazaar. He was everywhere cordially met by the natives, who expressed confidence that the English company would respect the religious rites and prejudices of the people, and uphold the ancient flag and authority of their Sultan at the ports conceded. Intelligent natives are aware that a European Administration will develop the dormant resources of the country and bring a settled Government and security in its wake.

Mr. Mackenzie further states that the natives assured him that the quarrel with the Germans was provoked by an unnecessary interference with long established customs of the people, and that the feeling of hostility was an entirely personal one against the German East African Company, the German Government being held in the highest respect. He also adds that the rupture entails most serious loss to the Sultan of Zanzibar, through the suspension of trade and the cessation of the revenues, and that the German Government would probably materially advance the Imperial interest by insisting on the temporary suspension of the operations of the German company, and by calling for a proper representative to inquire impartially and independently into the whole circumstances of the dispute. It would then be necessary for the German company to recommence operations on totally different lines; otherwise, if feelings of national rancour or sentiment were allowed to prevail, and a policy of "might is right" were adopted, it would, in the present excited state of the native mind, prolong a conflict unprofitable to all parties, and retard civilisation and the consequent beneficial effect which the presence of the German company on the adjoining territory would exercise on the interests of the British East African Company.

THE THIBETANS AND SIKKIM.

[Reuter's Telegrams.]

Calcutta, Oct. 7.—Intelligence from Gnatong of yesterday's date states that a Chinese political official arrived at Chumbi on the previous day. The Rajah of Sikkim is still encamped in the Gnatong Valley. Colonel Bromhead and the other wounded are doing well. The winter is close at hand.

Simla, Oct. 6.—Colonel Graham, commanding the Sikkim expedition, reports that energetic action in the interests of peace is being taken by the Chinese Ampan at Lhassa.

IRISH AFFAIRS.

A Nationalist meeting was held in Tipperary yesterday. Mr. Dillon was announced to speak, but, being unable to attend, wrote a letter in which he said he could not conceive a more critical moment than the present in the political situation of Ireland. Recent circumstances had unhappily added new courage to evictors and rack-renting landlords, who last spring were utterly beaten, but who now seemed inspired with new hopes. He had ascertained since his release that an attack had been courageously carried on upon all estates in Ireland resisting rack renting and extermination. Land courts were rapidly becoming departments of machinery now in existence for oppression to tenants to whom they were a delusion and a snare. Under these circumstances it would seem there was no hope for tenants, except in some method which would convince landlords that it will not pay to treat tenants in an insolent and unreasoning spirit. This winter was sure to be one of fierce struggles. He called on the men of Tipperary to let themselves be heard of this winter, and to strike one more blow for the old cause.

Yesterday a largely-attended Nationalist demonstration was held at Athy, which is situated a short distance from the Marquis of Lansdowne's estate. The principal speakers were Mr. Leamy, M.P., Mr. A. Macdonald, M.P., Mr. D. Kilbride, M.P., and Mr. Leahy, M.P. Resolutions were adopted expressing unabated confidence in the Nationalist leaders and party, and pledging the meeting to continue the struggle until an Irish Parliament was secured, and condemning the action of the Local Government Board in dissolving the Athy Board of Guardians for alleged maladministration. It was suggested that the people should pay no rates until the Local Government Board abandoned the principle of "taxation without representation." As regards the Plan of Campaign on the Luggacurran estate, a resolution was adopted condemning the action of Lord Lansdowne and Mr. Townsend Trench, and promising to assist the tenants in their struggle. Resistance to the officials was counselled by some of the speakers.

Upwards of 2,000 persons assembled at Kilninor churchyard yesterday, to unveil a monument erected to the memory of John Kinsella, an evicted tenant, who was shot dead at Craghan, near Coolgreany, by a body of emergency men on Sept. 28 last year. The monument, which is 11ft high, is shaped like a cross. Sir Thomas Esmonde, M.P., Mr. J. J. Clancy, M.P., and Father Farrelly addressed the meeting, strongly condemning the circumstances attending Kinsella's death, and advised the people to continue the Plan of Campaign which they had adopted, assuring them that victory would follow.

The Soudan.—Intelligence received at Cairo yesterday from Wady Halfa stated that Walad-el-Njumi, the leader of the Dervishes, is still at Dongola. Seven camel-loads of gum have arrived at Wady Halfa from Sarras, showing a desire on the part of the inhabitants to reopen trade. The Nile continues to fall rapidly.

The Right Hon. G. J. Goschen, Chancellor of the Exchequer, has consented to address a public meeting in the Town Hall, Birmingham, on Wednesday, Dec. 12 last, on the occasion of the second annual meeting of the Midland Union of Conservative Associations.

The Navy.—At the Admiralty, on Saturday, the following appointments were announced: Lieutenants—William Henry Arnold, to the Téméraire; Lancelot-Baillie Denman, to the Valorous; Gerald Archibald Heyman, to the Agamemnon; Hon. Stanhope Hawke, to the Sultan; Frederick Charles A. Ogilvy and Harold Charles Scroggs, to the Pilot (all to date 6th inst.; Henry Thompson, to the Myrmidon (to date 9th inst.); Henry Boyle T. Somerville, to the Assistance (to date 11th inst.); Maurice Charles Knight, Henry Douglas Wilkin, and Ernest Edward Lacy, to the Gannet, when recommissioned (undated); Archibald Peile Stoddart and Murray Thomas Parks, to the Cockatrice, when re-commissioned (undated). Sub-Lieutenants—Bertram Mordaunt-Chambers, to the Watchful; Edward Guy W. Davy, to the Sealark (both to date 8th inst.); Francis William Chaine, to the Banterer (to date 8th inst.); William George E. Ruck-Keene, to the Gannet, re-appointed on re-commissioning (undated).

THE COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF AT PORTSMOUTH.

On Saturday morning the Duke of Cambridge presented new colours to the Border Regiment, all the troops in garrison being paraded, and the ceremony being witnessed by some thousands of persons.

After the old colours had been trooped for the last time, the Border Regiment was formed into three sides of a hollow square, on the east and west sides being the other troops on parade. On the Duke of Cambridge being informed that a number of old officers of the regiment were on the field, he cordially invited their attendance. The senior of the retired officers was Lieutenant-General Sir Robert Hume, and of the non-commissioned officers Sergeant-Major Coley, and most of them had travelled long distances to be present. The Commander-in-Chief gave Sir Robert Hume a cordial greeting. After a hymn, sung by the garrison choir, and prayer, offered by the senior chaplain, Colonel Riley handed the Queen's colour to his Royal Highness, who gave it to Lieutenant Lawless, the latter receiving it kneeling. The regimental colour was then presented to Lieutenant Cooch, and both officers rose and faced the Commander-in-Chief.

His Royal Highness said: Colonel Morton, officers, and men of the Border Regiment, in presenting new colours to you to-day I am bound to remember that I have been associated with the old 55th, and in that spirit I address you to-day. When I went to Ireland forty-five years ago it fell to my lot to be at Limerick, and I had an opportunity of seeing this regiment passing through Limerick. My old and gallant friend Sir Charles Daubeney, now your colonel, was one of the majors. I have seen a great deal of you since. I saw you when you were under my command at Dublin, and it so happens that I was the person who presented the old colours, which you have had so many opportunities of defending with your lives. You have done so in a spirit of gallantry and distinction which has brought great credit upon the old 55th. You have served with distinction in China, but I remember you in the Crimea, and all I can say is, if you perform in the future, should God in His wisdom involve us again in war, the same feats of gallantry and distinction which this regiment performed in the Crimea, you will always preserve your good name, you will do credit to yourselves, be an honour to every officer and non-commissioned officer in the regiment, and be a credit to the country. Remember that you serve her Majesty. You have done so faithfully in the past and will again, for in serving her Majesty you serve the Empire. I feel proud that it has fallen to my lot again, after so many years' acquaintance and having known many of my gallant friends in the regiment who have passed away, to present new colours on this occasion, and I rejoice to do so in the presence of so many distinguished officers of the regiment who I am glad to see have come here to-day. Providence has given us a fine day for the occasion, and I hope it is a proof that the sunshine which has so constantly attended the regiment in great danger and peril of battle will continue to shine upon it in the future wherever you may serve or wherever you may go. I present you with the new colours, and leave it to you to carry out the rest of your duties to them with all the distinction and bravery you so well know how to evince.

Colonel Morton, on the part of the regiment, thanked the Duke for having presented the colours. A march past by all the troops on the ground closed the proceedings.

THE SCHOOL BOARD.

To the Editor of "The Daily Telegraph."

Sir—In the able and interesting address presented to the School Board by its chairman, there is a record of much upon which all will congratulate him and his colleagues; but it also contains a great deal of matter of a highly debatable kind.

While regretting the tone of implied disparagement of the work of preceding Boards which pervades these parts of the address, I do not propose at this moment to revive all the controversies of the past; but I ask your leave to refer to one statement, the correctness of which I do not dispute, but which is misleading. I refer to the paragraph in which Mr. Diggle claims for the present Board that they have added 61,583 places to the accommodation. The fact, if it be one, that this number of new places has been opened by the present Board only proves the activity of their predecessors, because about three years elapse between the first projection of a school and its opening for the reception of children.

When we look at the school places projected by the present Board there is a melancholy falling off. These amount to only 23,469 from Dec. 3, 1885, to the present time. Even supposing the provision for the population as it was in 1885 to have been sufficient, this is utterly inadequate to meet the known annual increase of London. This increment is admitted by Mr. Diggle to have been "from 12,000 to 13,000 children annually" (I believe it to be nearer 15,000 or 16,000); but he asserts that the increase has suddenly ceased, or almost ceased, during the present year. What ground is there for this assertion? The calculations of the Registrar-General tell a different tale, and it is within every one's observation that the outer zone of London, without speaking of the extra metropolitan area, continues to spread as heretofore. It is for these new populations that I venture to plead. To neglect them is not even "vestry economy," because to lag behind them in the matter of school provision is pay far dearer for sites in a few years.

This question of the outskirts is quite independent of the provision for the older portions of London. Here Mr. Diggle implies that preceding Boards overcalculated the needs and provided too many schools. He and his colleagues have instituted an entirely new and arbitrary basis of calculation, with far larger deductions for absentees, which has never been sanctioned by the Education Department. It is a long business to argue this question, and I will content myself with showing that if the schools are there, so are the children. The London Board schools have accommodation for 407,600, and although many of these schools are newly opened there are 420,600 children actually on their rolls.

Trusting that I shall be acquitted of carping criticism in calling attention to this urgent matter, I am, your obedient servant,

E. N. BUXTON.

The old Theatre Royal, at Dundee, was destroyed by fire at an early hour on Saturday morning. The building had been used as a music-hall for several years, and was undergoing extensive renovation preparatory to reopening. The fire raged fiercely until four o'clock, by which time the premises were entirely gutted and much scenery and other property destroyed.

Pensions for the Blind.—The Governors of Christ's Hospital have given notice that during the month of October they are prepared to pay 700 pensions of £10 each to blind persons. The conditions under which these pensions are paid are somewhat peculiar. In the year 1774 the Rev. William Hetherington left a sufficient sum of money to pay fifty blind persons, £10 a year each, but since that date other bequests have enabled the Governors of the hospital to pay 700 pensioners. The qualifications for a pension are that the applicant must be at least 61 years of age; must have been born and be resident in England (to the exclusion of Wales and Berwick-upon-Tweed); must have been totally blind for three years, and be resident in the parish from whence the application is made for at least three years previously. Any annuity or pension already possessed by an applicant must be under £20 per annum. The object of the founder of the charity (as expressed in his will) is to relieve such persons who, having been in a better situation in life, might by reason of their infirmity become a burden to their families. The Governors, therefore, give notice that any persons who have never occupied a higher position in life than labourers or journeymen, or domestic and menial servants, or who have been common beggars, or who have at any time received parish relief, will not be eligible for the benefits of the charity.

THE METROPOLITAN POLICE REPORT.

The report of Sir Charles Warren, Commissioner of the Metropolitan Police, for the year 1887 has just been issued as a Parliamentary paper. In the first paragraph it is stated that the authorised strength of the force at the end of the year was 30 superintendents, 820 inspectors, 1,363 sergeants, and 11,868 constables; total, 14,081; being an increase of two superintendents, 168 inspectors, and 196 sergeants, and a decrease of 89 constables since Dec. 31 in the preceding year. Excluding those who are employed on special duties for various Government departments, public companies, or private individuals, the number of police available for service in the metropolis is 12,460; but, making further allowance for those who are on leave in accordance with the regulation, absences from sickness, or employment on station and outside protection duties, there remain 8,773 police available for duty in the streets. About 60 per cent. of this number is required for night duty, viz., from ten p.m. to six a.m. During the day the ordinary beat duty of the whole of the metropolis devolves upon some 1,537 men; in addition to 464 constables on "fixed points," and 79 at hackney carriage standings. The Metropolitan Police district extends over a radius of fifteen miles from Charing-cross, exclusive of the City, and embraces an area of 688·31 square miles. "It will be seen," says Sir Charles, "that there is great need for a very considerable augmentation, and this has been so reported by the superintendents." The Commissioner proceeds: "The rapid increase both of buildings and population which has taken place in the Metropolitan Police District of late years has outrun the increase which it has been possible to make to the police force. It will be seen that since 1849, when the authorised strength of the police was 5,493, of whom 5,288 were available for police purposes, there have been built 500,852 new houses, while 3,463 are in course of erection, 1,853 miles of new streets have been added to the charge of the police, and the population has increased from 2,473,758 to 5,476,447. To meet this the available strength of the police force for ordinary duties, exclusive of those employed for the protection of public buildings in consequence of the dynamite outrages, is 8,773." He adds: "I have to refer to the remarks of the superintendents on the subject of clubs, viz., that many of them are little better than unlicensed public-houses. I think that all clubs should be placed under supervision. The duties of the police were exceptionally arduous and important owing to the various functions on the occasion of her Majesty's Jubilee; and her Majesty was graciously pleased to approve of the issue of a special medal to members of the Metropolitan Police Force in recognition of their services on that occasion. During the autumn attempts were made by unruly mobs to riot in the streets and Trafalgar-square, which proceedings were successfully coped with by the police. Owing to the concentration of the theatres, the thronging of the streets in the C Division increases from year to year."

Chief-Superintendent Dunlap, of the A Division, after dwelling upon the satisfactory manner in which the Jubilee celebrations passed off, proceeds: "From this pleasing portion of the duties of the year one is compelled to turn most reluctantly to a subject of the most opposite description, namely, the disturbances that have arisen in the name of the unemployed. This matter, most unsavoury to deal with, was one that the professional agitator did not hesitate to improve, and to use the sufferings of the poor as a peg to hang upon and propound his pernicious doctrines. For a lengthened period many poor wretched creatures, homeless, had made the square a sleeping place, uninterrupted by the police, but this gained a notoriety by certain of the residents asking questions through their members of Parliament, thus bringing it under public notice, and the answer elicited from the First Commissioner of Works had the effect of increasing the numbers from scores to hundreds. The illustrated papers then gave sketches of what they termed 'Trafalgar-square by Night.' This was followed by van loads of bread sent by charitable persons with the best of intent, but the loafer soon took cognisance of the transaction, and appeared as if by magic when the bread van arrived, and with equal celerity disappeared when he received the food, much to the injury of the deserving poor who were waiting. This was a golden opportunity for the agitator not to be let slip, and one morning two or three of them appeared on the square, unfurled a black banner with the words 'We will have work or bread' thereon, and after some difficulty induced about thirty of those poor creatures on the square to follow in procession to the offices of the Local Government Board, and from this small procession the whole of the subsequent events that alarmed the West-end of London for many weeks sprang. The numbers increased day by day, and the speeches of the unknown orators were duly chronicled in the daily press, and thus the matter assumed proportions that would never have been arrived at but for the publicity given to the statements of persons anxious for cheap notoriety. Matters thus progressed, assuming greater proportions daily, till these persons began to understand the maxim that 'unity gave strength,' and thus they commenced to make themselves obnoxious, till it was absolutely necessary that energetic steps should be taken to put an end to a state of things that was paralysing trade and ruining the prospects of the entire district. But the moment that the police attempted, in the interest of law and order, to put an end to a subject that was quickly becoming a scandal, they were assailed on all sides, and by a portion of the press also, that it was an attempt to interfere with the liberty of free speech, they were pronounced impertinent, and nothing was too bad in the eyes of some people to say with regard to the Police force. The lamentable events of Nov. 13 and other occasions were the direct outcome of the vicious counselling of a class of people who, although they will thrust their dupes to the front, generally manage to escape scatheless themselves."

THE LONDON TRADES.

At a meeting of the London Trades Council held on Saturday at their offices, 2, Whitefriars-street, Mr. C. J. Drummond (London Society of Compositors) presiding, it was decided to issue an appeal to the metropolitan trade societies to make arrangements for giving a suitable reception and welcome to the delegates attending the International Trades Union Congress in London during November next.

Sir T. V. Lister wrote from the Foreign Office to the secretary of council, Mr. G. Shipton, as follows:

"Sir—I am directed by the Marquis of Salisbury to transmit to you for the information of the London Trades Council copies of the treaty for the suppression of sugar bounties, together with copies of the declaration and protocol annexed to it, which were signed at this office to-day. The minutes of the proceedings of the conference will shortly be communicated to you."

The Council, on the proposal of Mr. T. Smyth (Plasterers), seconded by Mr. E. Coulson (Bricklayers), then adopted unanimously the following resolution, copies of which the secretary was instructed to forward to the proper quarters: "That this Council tenders the Government its appreciation of the great and beneficial work accomplished for legitimate industrial production, and an equitable commercial policy for the country in the completion of the International State Bounties Convention, and considers that the ability, tact, and good judgment exercised by Baron de Worms, M.P., and his colleagues representing Great Britain, have established a valuable principle of national importance, calculated to secure in the future friendly mediation between the nations of the world in their International relations, which convention no political faction should prevent being speedily ratified by Parliament, in the interest of social order and progress."

Applications to rejoin the council from the Alliance Cabinetmakers Society, and the Hat Shapers Society, were agreed to. Other routine business was completed, and the council adjourned.

WILLS AND BEQUESTS.

Probate has been granted of the will, dated May 13 last, of the Rev. the Hon. Wm. Whitworth Chetwynd Talbot, rector of Bishop's Hatfield, Herts, who died on July 3, aged seventy-four years. By his will the testator desired that he might be buried with as little expense and ostentation as possible, and wished to express his more than satisfaction with the invariable and increasing assistance, affection, and kindness which during the whole of their married life he had received from his wife, who, notwithstanding her numerous and unusual talents and accomplishments, had doubtless been greatly misunderstood by many. He gave, with his love, to Lord William Cecil his "Pole Synopsis Commentatorum," in five volumes folio, which, although in a very dilapidated condition, he deemed of inestimable value and worth, and he desired to express to Lord and Lady Salisbury his most grateful thanks for many kindnesses and benefits received at their hands, and to his great nephew, Henry John, Earl of Shrewsbury, and his wife, his gratitude for the great kindness invariably received from them, and gave, devised, and bequeathed all his property, real and personal, to his wife, the Hon. Eleanora Julie Talbot, whom he appointed sole executrix of his will, and by whom the value of his personal estate has been declared at £36,754.

Probate of the will, dated June 21 last, of the late Mrs. Catherine Dorcas Maude Strickland, of Ardincaple, Brooklands, Cambridge, who died on Aug. 2, aged fifty-five years, and who was a daughter of the late Sir William Jardine, of Applegirth, Bart., has been granted to the executors, Mr. Wellwood Maxwell, of Kirkman, N.B., and Mr. John Robinson Adams, of Cannon-street, solicitor; and the testatrix bequeaths £500 each to her sisters, Mrs. Home Maxwell, Mrs. Hassells Langdale, and Mrs. Helen Ratcliffe; £1,000 each to her nieces, Isabel, Catherine, and Dorcas, and Margaret Dorcas Jardine, and Jane Jardine Langdale; £500 to her great niece, Katherine Gertrude Kennear; £500 to her nephew and her godson, Charles Chichester Bernard and Ernest Rowland Hoskins; £1,000 in trust for the benefit of her brother, the Rev. Charles John Jardine, and his family, and the collection of fossils framed by her husband, the late Mr. Hugh Edwin Strickland, and thirty-two volumes of his work on ornithological synonyms to the University of Cambridge, to the care of the Strickland curators. All the residue of her property, real and personal, the testatrix leaves in trust for the children of her brothers, Sir Alexander Jardine, the late Captain William Jardine, R.N., and the Rev. Charles John Jardine, and her sisters, Mrs. Home Maxwell and Mrs. Hassells Langdale, the value of the personal estate being £13,283 15s 2d.

BRITISH WRECKS.

It is officially announced that the number and tonnage of British vessels respecting whose loss reports were received at the Board of Trade during the month of September, and the number of lives lost, are as follow:

Description.	Number.	Tonnage.	Lives Lost.
Sailing	35	8,709	48
Steam	14	6,480	5
Total	49	15,189	53

The above table is a record of "reports received" in the month, and not of wrecks which occurred during the month. Many of the reports received in September relate to casualties which occurred in previous months. Casualties not resulting in total loss of vessels, and the lives lost by such casualties, are not included.

On Friday the traffic receipts of the Suez Canal amounted to 140,000f, against 270,000f on the corresponding day of last year.

Nailmakers' Wages.—On Saturday the whole of the employers in the wrought nail trade in the Staffordshire and Worcestershire districts delivered iron to their work people at an advance of 10 per cent. There are about 15,000 operatives employed in the trade, amongst whom the decision of the employers to increase the wages has caused general satisfaction.

Examination free by a most experienced and skilful surgeon at Harness' Electropathic Establishment, 52, Oxford-street, London, W. (corner of Rathbone-place). MIDDLESEX SESSIONS—Oct. 6.

Who was the "Juggins"?—Joseph Brown was indicted for obtaining the sum of 21s by means of the purse trick, from Henry Hall.—Mr. Hutton appeared for the prosecution; and Mr. Keith Frith defended.—It appeared that about twelve o'clock on Sunday, Sept. 9, the prisoner came up to the prosecutor in Middlesex-street, Shoreditch, and asked him to buy a purse for 1s, which he stated contained 3s. Hall declared that he saw the man place the 3s in the purse, and he bought it for 1s. Brown then offered him for 2s a purse containing 5s, which the prosecutor bought, tendering him a sovereign and receiving 18s change. The accused next appeared to place £1 in a purse, which he offered to prosecutor for 18s. Mr. Hall considered this outlay also justifiable, and the purse changed hands. On opening his purchases only halfpence were found; ½d in one, 2½ in another, and 1½d in the third. The prosecutor ran after Brown and gave him in custody.—In cross-examination it was elicited that prosecutor bought the purses on speculation, thinking they might contain the money, and he also stated that he thought the prisoner was a "juggins," but he had since discovered that he was the "juggins" and not the accused.—The defendant was eventually acquitted, and in discharging him the judge told him to be more careful in future.—The prisoner then saluted the judge, and walked quickly out of the dock with a smile upon his face.

POLICE INTELLIGENCE.

MANSION HOUSE.—Alleged Embezzlement.—Edgar Faulkner, aged 58, chief clerk in the offices of the Economic Life Insurance Company, Bridge-street, Blackfriars, was charged with embezzling large sums of money, the property of his employers. The prisoner, it was said, entered the service of the company as office boy in 1840, being then ten years of age. In 1851 he was promoted to the position of bookkeeper, and in 1862 was appointed chief clerk. On account of failing health the directors recently gave him three months' leave of absence, and it was during that interval that a gentleman, who undertook to do his work, discovered there was something wrong with the books. It was found that four entries of moneys, amounting to £300, which ought to have been deposited at the Joint Stock Bank, had been altered, and the money embezzled. Faulkner was in Scotland at the time the discovery was made, and was asked by letter to return and explain his accounts. He replied, practically admitting his guilt, and he asked the company not to proceed against him criminally on account of his health. He came back to London, and on Friday was arrested under a warrant.—The Lord Mayor ordered him to be remanded for further evidence to be procured.

CITY SUMMONS COURT.—Costers and the Police.—Thomas Phippin was summoned for causing an obstruction with his fruit barrow.—Police-constable 123 deposed that the defendant was stopping a line of traffic, and, as he had been several times previously cautioned, he told him he would be summoned.—Defendant said this constable had become a terror to the costermongers. They were afraid to be seen by him, knowing that it meant a summons. If the Alderman only knew how many "of us poor chaps" he had summoned in the last month, he would pity them.—Sir Henry Isaacs reminded the defendant that this sort of talk was no answer to the charge, and that he would not make his case any better by making charges against the constable.—Defendant: When I asked him what he was going to summon me for he said, "Come, I don't want none of your hanking; I'm the boy to rollick it up for you." (Laughter.)—Sir Henry Isaacs (to the constable): Did you make use of such language?—The Constable: No, certainly not.—Sir Henry Isaacs fined Phippin 1s and costs.—Another costermonger was summoned by the same officer for a like offence, and in this case the constable said he allowed the defendant to remain ten minutes in order to summon him.—Sir Henry Isaacs: You have just read your evidence, have you not? Now read it again.—Defendant: This man would commit perjury, he would.—The Constable: I did not read my evidence, sir. I only referred to my book for the date.—Sir Henry Isaacs: I think you said you allowed him to remain ten minutes in order to summon him?—The Constable: Yes.—Sir Henry Isaacs: And I think you said the same in the last case.—The Constable: Yes.—Sir Henry Isaacs: Then I dismiss this summons. To allow a man to remain ten minutes in order that he may commit an offence is not right.—At this remark there was an attempt at applause in Court.

MARLBOROUGH-STREET.—Shooting Affair.—Severino Maccioni, a hairdresser, of Frith-street, Soho, was accused of shooting Valeriano Persichetti with a revolver in the right thigh, with intent to murder him, in Old Compton-street.—Mr. Arthur Newton defended, and, both parties being foreigners, Mr. Albert interpreted the evidence.—The prosecutor was unable to be present, being detained at Middlesex Hospital, whither he was conveyed immediately after the occurrence.—According to the evidence of Constable Seale, who was in Old Compton-street shortly after eight o'clock on Saturday morning, the prisoner discharged two shots from a revolver, the second of which struck Persichetti in the thigh. Both men were walking at the moment. Directly the prosecutor fell the constable took the revolver from Maccioni, and directed the other man to be taken to the hospital. The defendant said he was not sorry for what had occurred, but he had no intention to kill the man. The constable noticed that Maccioni's eye was very much swollen, cut, and discoloured.—The prisoner was remanded for further evidence.

CLERKENWELL.—A Sharp Cabman.—Edward Joyce, aged 34, described as a locksmith, and as having no home, was brought before Mr. Horace Smith accused of attempting to break and enter a shop at 23½, High-street, Islington, with intent to steal therein the goods of Arthur Bland Wordsworth, butcher, and further with having in his possession twenty-one skeleton keys and an iron jemmy.—Cornelius Stock, cabdriver, said that he was walking his horse down High-street about two o'clock on Saturday morning when he saw the prisoner standing close to the door of Mr. Bland's shop in a suspicious way, with his back turned to the street. Witness pulled up, and as he did so Joyce turned round, and he heard something like the rattling of keys in his pocket. Witness asked if he wanted a cab, and he replied "I'll cab you, you ——," and made off. Stock pursued him, driving his horse at a gallop to the corner of City-road and Goswell-road, calling for the police as he did so. There the prisoner doubled back, and witness, turning his horse, pursued him again until a constable took up the chase and captured the defendant. Witness accompanied them to the police station and saw the skeleton keys found in his pocket.—Prisoner said he was not intending to do anything to that bit of a shed.—Joyce was remanded accordingly.

WORSHIP-STREET.—Matrimonial Misery.—Johanna Bethke, 32, a tall and good-looking German, was charged with having attempted suicide by hanging herself.—The husband of the prisoner, Herman Bethke, said they lived in Great Chart-street, Hoxton. He did not know, he said, for what reason, but his wife was always troubled. She would cry, go into a passion, tear his clothes, and, taking up a knife, say she would kill herself. On Friday she took a rope and ran upstairs from him and said she would hang. He laughed at her, but he asked a lodger to watch her. He would not go, and the husband went upstairs, when he found his wife hanging with a rope round her neck over the staircase. He held her up by the legs and called to the lodger, who got a knife and cut the rope. After that she tried it a second time, and he had once more to cut her down. She said they should not prevent her; she would do it that day. He went to the station for a constable, and found when he got back that she had got another rope, and was only kept from hanging herself by the lodger. The defendant, who cried bitterly, said that her husband was cruel to her. They had a lodging-house, and she had to keep it clean—seven or eight rooms—and her husband did no work, but went to a gambling club at night, and stopped in bed all day.—The lodger, who was called to corroborate the evidence as to the attempt at suicide, said, in reply to the magistrate (Mr. Williams, Q.C.), that he did not know if the husband stopped in bed all day.—The prisoner: Yes, you do; you go to the gambling club every night yourself. You are as bad. My husband beats me if I cannot give him money to gamble with. I am black and blue. I cannot bear it. I am sick of my life.—The magistrate directed Constable Manning, 43 G R, to make inquiries, and remanded the prisoner till Monday.

THAMES.—Obstruction at Wapping Regatta.—Henry Speight, of Monmouth-street, Shadwell, and George Slack, of Peabody's-buildings, Shadwell, were summoned for committing wilful damage to a boat belonging to John Tarryer, by running into it, and for obstructing him in a race.—Mr. Waters prosecuted, and Mr. George Hay Young defended.—Mr. Waters said the facts were as follows: On Sept. 27 the annual Wapping Watermen's Regatta took place. Tarryer was rowing in a heat with two men named Baker and James. All three men were licensed watermen, and Speight was James's apprentice. While rowing Tarryer was unfortunate enough to break a scull, but he was supplied with another, and rowed on. Just as the competitors were off St. Katherine's Dock Pier the man Baker was about a length in front, Tarryer was rapidly getting up to him, and James was last. Speight and Slack were in a boat alongside a barge, and as the men were passing the boat shot out, and Slack rowed as hard as he could towards the racing men, colliding violently with Tarryer's skiff, nearly throwing its occupant into the water. Complainant asked Slack what he was doing, and the latter rowed ashore, and made off. The crowd followed, and would have lynched him had it not been for the interference of influential persons. Speight was standing up in the boat at the time, and did nothing to stop Slack. Tarryer finished second.—After perusing the Conservancy bye-laws, Mr. Lushington was of opinion that neither summons could be sustained against Speight, and Mr. Waters withdrew them, and proceeded against Slack. After hearing evidence Mr. Lushington said he did not think the case of wilful damage could be sustained. There was very little damage, and there was no proof that it was wilfully done. That summons would be dismissed. With regard to the other summons it seemed to him absurd that a man should run into the boat, and so incur the indignation of so many people, and then go back amongst the crowd. He (the magistrate), however, believed that the boat race was impeded, and the offender came under the bye-law. Defendant would be fined 40s and 2s costs.

HAMMERSMITH.—Rescue of a Child.—John Knight, aged 12, who lived at Strand-on-the-Green, was charged with wilfully damaging a boat, the property of Thomas Tunstall Saunders, a waterman.—The prisoner was summoned in the first instance; but he did not appear, and a warrant was granted for his apprehension.—Police-constable Ettridge said he apprehended the prisoner that morning, and read the warrant to him. He replied, "I did not break the boat or damage it. A little child got into the boat, and it drifted off with the tide. We got into a dinghy (another boy being with him) and went after the boat and dragged it ashore, to prevent the little child from being drowned."—The complainant deposed that he moored the boat to a raft near the Pier Hotel. He had his dinner, and when he came out he saw the prisoner and another boy in the boat rowing towards Kew. He called to them, and saw the boat rowed into the mud. The prisoner, in jumping out, fell over one of the sculls, damaging it and also the boat. He found the craft smothered in mud.—John Ridding, the other boy, said all they did was to fetch the child ashore. They took the boat to the dock, and when they saw Mr. Saunders they ran away.—John Fleming, a labourer, stated that he saw his little boy, five years of age, in the boat, drifting away. He asked a boy to fetch him back.—Mr. Paget ordered the boy to be discharged.

Madam de Staël.—A certain lady, envious of the talents of this clever woman, remarked that "she was most exceedingly ugly"; but it may be doubted if any woman can be ugly who has a beautiful complexion, and most of our countrywomen might possess this charm if they would preserve the skin by the use of Rowland's Kalydor, which obviates the baneful effects of cold winds and damp weather on the complexion, removes freckles, tan, chaps, redness, and roughness of the skin, and renders it soft, fair, and delicate. It is warranted free from any lead, mineral, or greasy ingredients, and has for 70 years been known as the only reliable and harmless preserver of the complexion. Sold everywhere. THE ARMADA.—The Thanksgiving at St. Paul's, Elizabeth's Triumphal Progress. God Save the Queen. God Save You, My People.

THE ARMADA.—The unanimous praise bestowed upon this historical drama and grand spectacle by the leading press of the country is nightly endorsed by the crowded audiences which fill Drury-lane Theatre at each performance.

THE ARMADA.—It is impossible in an advertisement to give an idea of the volumes that have been written enthusiastically commending this play to the attention of the lovers of the artistic, the beautiful, and the true.

THE ARMADA.—Times says: "A great success was achieved, and the fame of the theatre as the home of spectacular displays cannot fail to be increased by this latest addition to their number. Nor does the production lack merit in other directions. The authors of 'The Armada,' inspired by the thoughts which the tercentenary of the great naval conflict suggests, have set themselves to write a play which shall be fresh and interesting, and shall not depend exclusively for success upon mere scenic effect. The times and events which they have chosen for reproduction on the stage are among the most stirring in the whole annals of British history; they supply abundant opportunities for appealing to the patriotic sentiment, and they bristle with romantic and picturesque incident."

THE ARMADA.—Times says: "The great naval display, which can be called no less than a triumph of stage artifice, was received on Saturday with shouts of applause, and if it stood alone would be sufficient to attract the public for many a day. At the fall of the curtain there was loud and prolonged applause."

THE ARMADA.—Daily Telegraph says: "In a scene of general excitement, Mr. Augustus Harris on Saturday night succeeded in launching one of the mightiest, most showy, and costly vessels that has ever been built in the dramatic docks of Drury-lane. The sea-fight between the Armada and the English war-vessels off Calais may be pronounced the most effective historical picture ever realised on the modern stage. The murky gloom of the atmosphere, the lurid light thrown on the opposing vessels, the awful realism of firing, the shouting and cheering of the sailors, the marvellous moving of the vessels to give the enemy a broadside, make up a scene so novel and impressive that it will not readily be forgotten. This Armada fight, in its design, its daring, and its execution, will be quoted as one of the boldest achievements ever attempted on the Drury-lane stage. This scene alone will attract all London."

THE ARMADA.—Daily Telegraph says: "In his pictures of the Inquisition Mr. Harris has been careful not to give offence. All was done in scrupulous good taste. In the scene once more we behold a triumph of stage management and a brilliant flash of colour. It is a scene that will linger on the memory. Queen Elizabeth has to pass, under a baldachino, to Old St. Paul's, to make thanksgiving for the safety of her country. It is a procession of accurate costume, and those who would understand what Elizabeth's reign was like so far as it outwardly appeared can see it here. The old cathedral dedicated to St. Paul, the Cross, and the citizens appear here just as they were three centuries ago. This will be a picture that will be appreciated alike by the student and the sight-seer. 'The Armada' is one of the most distinctly creditable things that Mr. Harris has ever done. 'The Armada' is a noteworthy advance on anything that has been recently attempted in giving artistic and thoughtful work to a popular stage. Such enterprise must succeed."

THE ARMADA.—Standard says: "Mr. Augustus Harris has chosen for the date of his new play a remarkably picturesque and stirring period of English history. . . . An extraordinarily effective series of stage pictures has been supplied. The great sea fight between the Armada and the English fleet created much enthusiasm and astonishment. The brilliant procession to St. Paul's, whither Elizabeth goes in great state and triumph to return thanks for victory over the enemy, is among the most magnificent and effective of the many wonderful scenes which have made Mr. Harris's management famous."

THE ARMADA.—Daily News says: "The authors of 'The Armada' have drunk deep of the sentiment of the most stirring and the most truly national episode of our annals. The story undoubtedly interested and amused the spectators. The dialogue is exceptionally good. The great battle off Calais is the most striking feature and the scenic climax of the play. The characteristics of the fight, with the huge Spanish and Portuguese galleons and galleasses looming large in the glare of the fire-ships, and exchanging broadsides with the English ships, amidst the crash of falling spars and the cheers and howlings of the English sailors, were happily portrayed, and were all very stirring and rich in picture. Next to this for breadth and massive effect was the crowded yet well composed scene of the auto-da-fé in the grand square of Cadiz, and the imposing closing spectacle of the Queen's triumphal entry into Old St. Paul's. 'The Armada' may safely be assumed to be launched upon a long and prosperous career."

THE ARMADA.—Morning Post says: "In 'The Armada' Messrs. Henry Hamilton and Augustus Harris have hit upon a happy idea that will bring substantial reward to them, and will at the same time supply for months to come a great deal of enjoyment for the playgoing public. We may heartily congratulate the authors on the work they have done. [illegible] 'The Armada' as a spectacle. [illegible]"

THE ARMADA.—Morning Post says: "It is the fight off Calais that most excites the audience. [illegible] 'The Armada' will keep its place in the Drury-lane bill until Christmas at least. [illegible]"

THE ARMADA.—Chronicle says: "A healthful and invigorating breeze of patriotic sentiment surges through the new drama produced with unmistakable success on Saturday evening; and when the authors had been twice summoned at the final fall of the curtain, the question put by Mr. Harris, standing before the footlights, 'Is the piece a success?' was answered with a spontaneous burst of applause that left no doubt of the nature of the verdict. . . . 'The Armada' is not merely a 'show piece.' Constructively the piece has considerable claims to respect, whilst its national spirit is irresistible."

THE ARMADA.—Chronicle says: "The spectacular effects were alike remarkable for splendour of embellishment, realistic attributes, and the ease with which they were made to grow out of the story. [illegible]"

THE ARMADA.—Chronicle says: "In its scenic [illegible]"

THE ARMADA.—Chronicle says: "The play ends with a gorgeous procession of the Queen to Old St. Paul's to return thanks for the national victory. [illegible] 'The Armada' [illegible] a valid claim to be regarded as the 'national theatre.'"

THE ARMADA.—Globe says: "The first night's performance passed without a solitary hitch or mishap. [illegible] The sea-fight is probably the most elaborate and successful picture of a combat ever put upon the stage. Nothing so good as this has been previously done at Drury-lane. [illegible] and 'The Armada' will count with the most conspicuous of Drury-lane triumphs."

THE ARMADA.—Advertiser says: "Drury-lane was crowded to excess on Saturday night, and, as might have been expected, patriotism rose to fever height, both on the stage and in the front. [illegible] Nothing could be more vivid in its realism, more exciting, or more ingeniously contrived than the scene of the sea-fight off Calais between the English and the Spaniards. [illegible] Mr. Augustus Harris has, in the preparation of this historical pageant, shown even more than his accustomed liberality, but that he will be reimbursed in a prosperous run of the piece is certain. [illegible] It may be safely assumed that Drury-lane will ring with vociferous applause every night this splendid scene is presented."

THE ARMADA.—Sportsman says: "No more fitting subject for a national drama at our national theatre could have been thought of by an astute and spectacle-loving manager. Mr. Harris and Mr. Hamilton have found a capital subject for introducing a powerful and romantic love story, and the result of Saturday night's première at the 'Lane' was a big success. [illegible] When the play concluded Mr. Harris and Mr. Hamilton came to the footlights in reply to loud calls. 'Is the play a success?' asked the former, and the ayes in reply were not only in a majority, but unanimous."

THE ARMADA.—Echo says: "The story is well told. Presented, with marvellous detail, a series of tableaux that rouse enthusiasm in the audience. The remaining and most brilliant spectacle with which the play terminates represents with surpassing loveliness and dazzling effect the procession to St. Paul's Cathedral. Mr. Harris, called upon for a speech, asked, 'Is the play a success?' an answering shout went up assuring him that he had once more hit the popular taste."

THE ARMADA.—Sporting Life says: "Mr. Augustus Harris is to be congratulated on his greatest achievement. 'The Armada' will, no doubt, fill Drury-lane Theatre to overflowing until it shall please the manager to make a change in the bill."

THE ARMADA.—Pall Mall Gazette says: "'Is the piece a success?' was the question put by Mr. Harris as he appeared in front of the curtain with his collaborateur. Enthusiastic cheers burst from the audience by way of reply. Their verdict was conclusive, and is not to be appealed from. 'The Armada' will, we are assured, attract playgoers to Drury-lane for months to come."

THE ARMADA.—Evening News says: "'The Armada,' in fine, is a sound melodrama of the regulation school, enriched by scenic effects that make it one of the most magnificent spectacles ever seen in Drury-lane. It should draw all London."

THE ARMADA.—St. James' Gazette says: "Such a 'tercentenary celebration' as could not well be attempted elsewhere. By far the best thing which even Mr. Harris has achieved."

THE ARMADA.—Citizen says: "Need we say 'The Armada' is a gigantic success. By now every one knows it is. More to the purpose, therefore, is it to advise our readers to book well in advance."

CAPTAIN SWIFT.—EVERY EVENING, at 8.30.—"There is some soul of goodness in things evil."—Henry V.—HAYMARKET THEATRE.

CAPTAIN SWIFT.—"A stimulating piece, which for some scores of nights will attract the public to the Haymarket, and will probably remain in the repertory of the house. To its success with the first night's audience an almost faultless interpretation largely contributed. There was the true ring about the cheers with which the representation was greeted, and the verdict of the departing public was unanimously and excitedly favourable. . . . Mr. Tree's presentation of Captain Swift, the hero of this strange piece, is a masterly piece of acting. . . . It is superbly mounted, and furnishes a spectacle lacking no element of enduring popularity."—Morning Post.—HAYMARKET THEATRE.

CAPTAIN SWIFT is in itself a drama of powerful and dramatic interest, and so admirably acted all round that it holds an audience enthralled from the rise to the fall of the curtain. . . . Every lover of good acting should go and see 'Captain Swift.'"—Punch, Sept. 15.

Byde, Edwin Shepherd, &c.; Mesdames Alma Murray, Helen Leyton, E. H. Brooke, Marion Lea, &c. The play produced by Mr. W. Sidney. New scenery by Bruce Smith. Lessee, Mr. John Lart. Doors open 7.45. Carriages at eleven.

THE MONK'S ROOM.—Mr. E. S. WILLARD.—The Daily Telegraph says: "Mr. Willard is seen for the first time in a character of greater variety and scope than any that have been written for him. He is no longer the mere conventional villain, the stock rascal, the cheap adventurer, the modern swindler. He is a man of heart as well as a man of brains, and his love scene with Miss Alma Murray in its manliness, its grip of passion, and its welcome sincerity, reveals the popular actor in a new light. Mr. Willard is not the accepted stage lover, the pretty pleader, the curled darling, the idol of the sentimental schoolgirl, but a man who makes love with his brains as well as his lips. It was a charming scene, fresh, original, and truthful, that love-plight between Mr. Willard and Miss Alma Murray, sheltering under the old boughs of a ruined oak." Standard says: "Mr. Willard gave a very effective impersonation of the baronet, who eventually escapes 'with honours.'" Daily Chronicle says: "Mr. Willard, who has not before played the part in London, materially adds to the natural strength of the piece by his earnest and impressive embodiment of [illegible], the well-meaning gentleman who is haunted by the belief that he has committed a murder."

GLOBE.—THE MONK'S ROOM.—TO-NIGHT.

THE MONK'S ROOM.—Miss ALMA MURRAY.—Daily Telegraph says: "Miss Alma Murray, as a true-hearted, high-spirited girl, was graceful and sympathetic, but rose as the subject rose to dignity and power. In the last scenes her acting was singularly impressive." Standard says: "Miss Murray distinguished herself as the heroine." Daily Chronicle says: "Miss Murray has again been engaged for the part of Eleanor Brandon, which is exactly adapted to her sympathetic manner."

GLOBE.—THE MONK'S ROOM.—TO-NIGHT.

THE MONK'S ROOM.—Mr. HERMANN VEZIN.—The Daily Telegraph says: "Mr. Hermann Vezin, the old grey wolf of a Socialist, the man whose heart has been crushed by disappointment, the strong-minded, assertive nature that makes of will a religion, and self a god, has the exact character that suits his vigorous declamation and his finished style. In appearance and manner he might have sat for that old fellow, powerful in feature and arrogant in death, who would not bequest or unclench his fist when Robert Browning saw him stretched on the marble death-bed of the Morgue."

GLOBE THEATRE.—THE MONK'S ROOM.—Daily Telegraph says: "'The Monk's Room' should be seen by all who appreciate good acting." Sportsman says: "'The Monk's Room' was admirably staged. The fall of the curtain brought with it marked approval of the play and the appearance of all the principal performers and the author at the footlights. Of the acting it is impossible to speak in too high praise, and the piece afforded them opportunity for the full display of their respective powers."

THE MONK'S ROOM.—GREAT SUCCESS.—Morning Post says: "Modern playgoers who wish to study a school of melodrama in which many great actors and actresses of the past made themselves famous cannot do better than witness 'The Monk's Room.' The character played by Mr. Willard in many respects resembles some of those in which Kean used to shine. The attention of the audience was kept from first to last, and when the curtain fell the applause was hearty in the extreme, and the author, being called to the footlights, was warmly congratulated."

GLOBE.—THE MONK'S ROOM.—TO-NIGHT.—The Sporting Times says: "Its story is strong and interesting, and constitutes a decidedly attractive bill. It really speaks volumes for Mr. Lart's ability as a dramatic author that he has succeeded in producing a work which not only delighted the gods, but which succeeded in arousing the interests of the blasé personages known as critics. Everybody in the house follows the development of the plot with great keenness, and at the close pent-up feelings find relief in hearty applause."

THE MONK'S ROOM.—GREAT SUCCESS.—The Globe says: "Its reception last night was genuinely favourable, and the cheering was warm and prolonged enough to furnish a happy augury of enduring popularity."

GLOBE.—THE MONK'S ROOM.—TO-NIGHT.—The Topical Times says: "Mr. Lart's play is a terse, virile drama, with a strong and interesting plot, effective situations, a powerful love interest, and a startling and dramatic climax. The writing is excellent, and betrays honest scholarly work. Mr. Lart has won his battle with 'The Monk's Room.' His play has satisfied the critics and pleased everybody who saw it. On Tuesday night the verdict was given unanimously in his favour. If good dramatic writing and a keen incisive play will attract without theatrical gymnastics, 'The Monk's Room' will fill the Globe Theatre for many weeks."

THE MONK'S ROOM.—GREAT SUCCESS.—Whitehall Review says: "'The Monk's Room' at the Globe Theatre is a play of such earnestness and substantiality that it deserves to succeed, and succeed it doubtless will. Its author, Mr. John Lart, has given us something out of the common, and the novelty is very refreshing. It is not too often nowadays that we get treated to a play of a distinctly imaginative character. 'The Monk's Room' is full of imaginative elements, and is backed up by vigorous and, at times, brilliant dialogue." The Lady's Pictorial says: "'The Monk's Room' is beautifully mounted and the scenery perfect."

SHORTHAND.—27, Chancery-lane.—PITMAN'S.—METROPOLITAN SCHOOL (Ld.). Established 1870. E. S. Gunn, Principal; B. De Bear, Chief of the Reporting Department (now appointed for superior reporting ability to also lead the elementary tuition in place of late head master of that section). At present there is not a School of Shorthand in London that has more than one instructor to teach all its pupils except the Metropolitan, which has 20 instruction rooms and 20 teachers and readers. The effect of this is, that it is the only establishment where adequate private or individual tuition and practical training are obtainable for every pupil and separate practice to writers of all speeds concurrently. Beware of new schools which put forward low fees as a sort of apology for their want of facilities and experience in producing efficient writers. Anything short of practical efficiency is worthless, and means time and money wasted. This school largely owes its premier position to the fact that it devotes all the energies of its large staff to the one subject, Shorthand.

THEREFORE its RESULTS are the HIGHEST KNOWN. Soc. of Arts and Pitman's certificates. Its total exceeds that of all other schools in England combined. One thousand certificates recently obtained. Public reporting gold medal competition, all medals awarded. Oldest and largest School (highest exam. results in the world). Most rapid and thorough tuition. Separate schools for ladies and youths. Business men taught any time they can call. Private tuition. Prospectus post free.—27, Chancery-lane. Open ten to ten.

REPORTS of MEETINGS, LAW CASES, &c., by B. De Bear and experienced reporters. Shorthand writers and type-writers sent out on short notice to hotels, offices, &c. Free registry for clerks and employers. Inspect our list of vacancies, and obtain superior appointments.—27, Chancery-lane.

APPOINTMENTS.—Ladies, gentlemanly youths (separate schools), and young men can be immediately placed, employers preferring our practically trained pupils. The City Press says: "This school is the powerful factor for supplying shorthand assistants." Best gift for a boy: This school's course of lessons. Proficiency guaranteed. Boarders received. Tutors say boys knowing shorthand do best at all exams. To enable youths from school and gentlemen without business experience to take commercial appointments, there is a separate school for CLERKS.—Important.—Knowledge of business, and how to obtain it. Rapidly acquired here, under a chartered accountant and experienced business men. Also bookkeeping, business hand, correspondence, office routine, banking, shipping, &c. Invaluable for gentlemen who have not had a thorough commercial training, also youths who, fresh from school, are comparatively useless in offices, and can only obtain remunerative salaries after a long probation. A boy's last school term should be spent here. Prospectus free.—BUSINESS TRAINING COLLEGE, 27, Chancery-lane.

THE WHITE DRAWING ROOM.—A Gentleman writes: "Whatever I do I do thoroughly. I determined to renovate everything in my drawing room with 'Aspinall's White Enamel,' so I had all the furniture and woodwork well pumice-stoned, then painted one coat. When that was hard I had it again pumice-stoned, then another coat of 'Aspinall,' and when that was hard I repeated the pumice-stoning process, and put on a third coat of 'Aspinall,' and the effect is beautiful beyond description; a perfectly hard marble surface, white as snow, and smooth as glass." THE FARTHING LETTER-CARD COMPANY (Limited).

ABRIDGED PROSPECTUS.

The idea of selling a half-penny stamped post-card for a farthing has now been worked steadily for some months past, until the business has assumed dimensions which are thought to justify the formation of a public company to further develop the invention. Agents for the sale of the cards have been appointed in leading centres of commerce. The sale of post-cards in the United Kingdom reached last year a total of 188,000,000.

By means of the advertisements placed round the card, for which Royal Letters Patent have been granted, as per the specimen sent with the prospectus, it is possible to sell the stout card, stamped with a half-penny stamp ready for use, for one farthing, and yet make a handsome profit.

The cards are printed in series of 100,000, and an advertiser who has an extensive use for cards can, by buying 15,000, have his advertisements on 100,000 for nothing, as the saving in the price of the cards more than pays for the cost of the advertisement.

The business will be taken over as from the 1st October, and an agreement has been entered into with Messrs. Shelley and Co., Advertising Contractors, of 5, Leadenhall-street, E.C., for letting all the advertising spaces on the cards, they agreeing to take a minimum number of 100,000 cards a week for three years from the 15th October, 1888, subject to a penalty. The amount receivable under this contract and from the sale of the cards will be sufficient to pay 15 per cent. dividends on the whole of the capital from the first. A copy of this agreement can be seen at the company's offices.

The consideration to be paid for the patent, goodwill, and other assets connected with the business is 100 founders' shares, carrying half the profits after 20 per cent. has been paid on the ordinary shares, and the sum of £15,000, payable as to £3,000 in cash, and the balance in cash or shares at the option of the directors.

The directors have allowed for £4,375 for working capital.

The shareholders will be asked to assemble for their statutory meeting as early as possible after allotment, for the purpose of appointing an auditor, one of whose duties it will be to check and certify the number of post cards stamped and issued by the Post Office authorities on behalf of the company.

The contracts which have been entered into can be seen at the offices of the solicitors to the company, and are fully set out in the prospectus, copies of which, together with forms of application for shares, can be obtained of the bankers, or from the secretary.

"FOR THE BLOOD IS THE LIFE."

CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE.

CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE.

CLARKE'S WORLD-FAMED BLOOD MIXTURE.

"I feel duty bound to inform you of the wonderful effects of Clarke's Blood Mixture on me. I have had suffering over two years of a severe nature. I first consulted the best medical aid I could possibly procure for over six months, till my means were run out, and with a sad heart I was compelled to come into the workhouse hospital, where I now am. I had been here 18 months, and my legs gradually got worse. I began to think they would never get better, till about five months ago I read in a copy of the Hull, East Yorkshire, and Lincolnshire Times of 'Clarke's Blood Mixture,' and I determined that when I could raise the means I would try it; so I commenced to deprive myself of little necessaries till at length I had raised eleven shillings. I got my sister to purchase me a large bottle. She brought me one in on May 5, and to my surprise she brought me 1s. 9d. back, which enabled me to purchase two small pots of your Miraculous Salve. I commenced to use the Blood Mixture on May 7. I then had five wounds on the left leg, one very large on the ankle-bone, one on the shin about the size of half-a-crown, and three on the calf almost as large. The right leg was somewhat similar, but there were three sores which I thought would break into one, but all are perfectly healed up now but one small place on the left ankle about the size of a shilling. There are 15 patients in the ward that I am in, and they were surprised to see my legs when I had taken the mixture a week, and there are three of them now using it. I am very sorry, indeed, that I cannot purchase another bottle. You may judge for yourself how I am fixed, after being in here 18 months. My sister, Mrs. Bulmer, lives at No. 26, Grimsby-lane, Market-place, Hull, and if you would kindly send me a small quantity of your Mixture to the above address I should be able to get it, and I shall never forget you as long as I live.—Yours faithfully, EDWARD STATHERS.
"No. 6 Ward, Anlaby-road Workhouse Hospital, Hull, June 13, 1888."

LATER.

"I write to let you know how I am getting on. I received the bottle of Mixture you sent me, and the wounds are now completely healed up. I will be out of here in a few days, and get to work, which is already promised me. I am going to reside at my sister's, Mrs. Bulmer. If you wish to use this case for the benefit of other poor sufferers, do so. The results of your Mixture is really wonderful.—I remain, your thankful servant, June 30, 1888. "EDWARD STATHERS."

LONDON, MONDAY, OCTOBER 8.

Telegrams from Simla state that the Third Column of General M'Queen's expedition, after a slight skirmish with the enemy, occupied the crest of the Black Mountain, and afterwards advanced to Karun on the western slope. The First Column holds Chittabut, also on the crest, and the Second Column has moved to Barchar, to camp. A few casualties are reported.

At Portsmouth on Saturday, in the presence of thousands of spectators, the Duke of Cambridge presented new colours to the Border Regiment, and in the course of a spirited address recalled his own association with the old Fifty-fifth.

For the first time for many months the Board of Trade returns for September appear to be slightly less favourable. The total exports were valued at £19,663,660, being a decrease of £230,170. The imports reached a total of £28,414,372, showing an increase of £1,222,778. During the nine months of the year, as compared with the corresponding period of 1887, the augmentations were £11,132,128 in exports, and £14,185,421 in imports.

At a meeting of the London Trades Council, on Saturday night, a resolution was unanimously adopted thanking the Government, and especially Baron Henry de Worms, M.P., for the part they had taken in connection with the Sugar Bounties Treaty.

Sir Charles Warren's report to the Home Secretary on the Metropolitan Police for 1887, showing that, while a considerable increase had been made in the number of the officers during that year, there had been a slight decrease in the strength of the men. The Commissioner has come to the conclusion that there is great need for a very considerable augmentation.

In reply to the petition of the Whitechapel Vigilance Committee praying the Government to offer a reward for the discovery of the perpetrator of the East-end crimes, the Home Secretary states that while he has given directions that no effort or expense be spared in endeavouring to capture the guilty person, he has not been able to advise the Queen that the ends of justice would be promoted by any departure from the course already announced.

A medical examination of the leg which was recently disinterred at Guildford has revealed the fact that it is not a woman's, as was supposed, but that of a bear. It appears that a gentleman living near Guildford had a taste for the flesh of this animal, and a portion of a fine bear was sent to him from Russia, but when it was cooked he did not like it, and the limb was thrown away.

Edgar Faulkner, aged fifty-eight, for many years the chief clerk in the offices of the Economic Life Insurance Company, Blackfriars, was charged at the Mansion House on Saturday with embezzling large sums of money belonging to his employers. The accused was remanded.

On Saturday the Stock Markets were again flat, although the final prices were not the worst, owing to the influx of £140,000 in gold to the Bank. A smart fall occurred in foreign Government bonds on weak Bourse quotations, and the depression extended to home, American, and Mexican railways. Copper shares were dull and diamond mines lower. Consols improved ⅛ per cent. for cash.

WITH the visit this week of the Emperor of GERMANY to Rome will be completed the Imperial tour commenced a few weeks after his accession. The journey to St. Petersburg was an act of personal courtesy to a great neighbouring Sovereign. The interview with the Emperor FRANCIS JOSEPH confirmed and proclaimed anew to the world that political and military league which stands in Central Europe "four-square to all the winds that blow." The visit to the King of ITALY emphasises the triple character of the new Holy Alliance for the preservation of peace. But Rome is also the seat of a Power which in historical interest and far-reaching tradition far transcends the brand-new Kingdom of Italy or the eighteen-year old German Empire. It is understood that the first visit of the Emperor WILLIAM will be paid to his Holiness the Pope. This is in accord with the ancient custom that sets spiritual above temporal power, and that survives in the form of our old toast "Church and King." Time was when the ruler of Germany claimed political descent from the CÆSARS and CONSTANTINES, and as such waged a constant war with the Papacy. Sometimes he came to bend the knee to the Vicegerent of CHRIST, and to receive from him what was then considered a necessary consecration. At other times he entered Rome on the heels of victory, an unbidden and unwelcome guest. The situation is changed. His Holiness can add nothing to the political prestige of the young Emperor, nor make his military position more secure; but he can smooth the Parliamentary path of Prince BISMARCK by exhibiting to the Catholic subjects of Prussia the spectacle of their spiritual lord holding friendly intercourse with their political ruler. No reciprocal service can be expected from the Emperor. He could not if he would restore the territory which Italy has wrenched from the Papal power. There is no doubt, however, that many European statesmen, Protestant as well as Catholic, recognised long ago the convenience of the Temporal Power attached to the Chair of St. Peter. When NAPOLEON thought of establishing the Pope at Fontainebleau all Europe foresaw that a Supreme Pontiff surrounded by French guards would find little respect for his decrees in other parts of the world. Therefore, had the Papal States constituted an island, the isolation and independence of the territory occupied by his Holiness would have obtained the approval and support of all the Powers; but when it was found that Rome and its dependencies cut the heart out of the Italy that craved unity, the world saw a conflict of feeling—one half sympathising with the aspirations of a young nation struggling to be united and free, the other with the venerable High Priest of the Catholic world stripped of his States and reduced to a Palace and its adjacent grounds.

The visit of the Emperor William represents both phases of feeling. He will, it is said, enter Rome, alight at the German Embassy, thence start to visit Leo XIII., and then return to be the guest of King Humbert at the Quirinal. He will thus pay successive respect, first to the Pope, as the spiritual ruler of the Catholics of the world, including millions of the Prussian nation and German race; and, secondly, to the King of Italy, as the ruler of a young nation, not yet thirty years old. The Pope will receive his illustrious guest with all the traditional and stately ceremonial of the Papal Court, and it may be that Leo XIII. will mentally recall Prince Bismarck's boast, "We will not go to Canossa." That phrase was uttered to emphasise the refusal of the Court and Cabinet of Berlin to repeal the Falk Laws. These penal enactments are now repealed or obsolete, and the young Emperor—Prince Bismarck's favourite pupil—visits Rome and offers his first homage to the Pope. The fact is that, as regards the old quarrel with Prussia, the Catholic Church has won and the Cabinet of Berlin has lost. It sought to make the Roman Catholic establishment in Prussia a branch of the Civil Service, and to dissever it more or less from Rome. In that respect it has signally failed, as did the first French Republic with its "constitutional" priests. Leo XIII. has now no quarrel with the German Emperor; his bishops and priests in Prussia enjoy liberty, privileges, and pay; he has won all along the line. It would be well, however, for Roman Catholics to consider that the position now occupied by the Papacy is due in a great measure to its freedom from the cares and alliances which its former territory involved. When the Pope was a temporal ruler, with a French or Austrian garrison supporting his power, he was hampered in all his negotiations by the consciousness of his position. He excited political jealousy, or was a prey to political apprehensions. But, as spiritual ruler only, he is specially free. He has not to conciliate any Sovereign in expectation of needing his military assistance; he can speak boldly as the master of the consciences of millions of men. What Pio Nono could not achieve, Leo XIII. has accomplished. He has seen his arbitration invoked by Germany and Spain, as if the days of Hildebrand had returned. His Church is more honoured in England and America than at any time in history. In Ireland Leo XIII. has made himself an exponent of a higher morality than that taught to the millions by Irish—and even by some English—party chiefs. It is certainly interesting to note that this revival of the oldest and the most honourable traditions of Papal Rome dates from the downfall of the Temporal Power. The Pope, not having to rely on Kings or French or Irish free lances against troublesome or rebellious subjects, speaks with firm tone and excellent effect when he addresses the faithful throughout the world. We may be sure that the scene at the Vatican this week will be more dignified than was that at Canossa centuries ago, or than more recent interviews between Emperor and Pontiff. There will be no humiliation on either side; no penance imposed on a Sovereign—no concessions extorted from a Pope. Leo XIII. depends on no earthly ruler for what he enjoys—unquestioned sway over the consciences of the Catholics of the world; no Sadowa or Sedan will overthrow that power.

By the alliance between Germany, Austria, and Italy which will receive its crowning touch at Rome this week, no ancient tradition or sentiment is represented, but a hard necessity growing out of dangerous facts. Europe has on its north a great State which has been a disturbing, because advancing, Power for many generations. Nobody, not even the Czars themselves, know where Russia will next encroach or when she will finally stop. Whether we admit, with the Panslavists, that it is "manifest destiny," or resent the reign of the stick over free peoples, this steady aggression of Russia once directed against Mussulmans, and now menacing Christian freedmen, must awaken apprehensions in those who prefer the map of Europe as it is. Then in the West we see a Republic which is only another name for a Revenge. Nobody can tell what adventurer—Bourbon, Bonaparte, or Boulanger—may have it in his power to hurl across the frontier the military power of revived France. It would be a mad enterprise, but nevertheless it would cost much to capture the escaped lunatic and to chain him up again. The Triple League simply springs from these two dangers. Russia is not satisfied with Bulgaria free; France is not content with Alsace Germanised. With Russia ruling in Sofia, and Strasburg again held by France, we should purchase peace—perhaps for five years; but the three States allied in politics and prepared for war are not ready to pay the price; so they stand shoulder to shoulder and back to back, facing north and west. The toasts proposed at Vienna show that the Austrians regard the German soldiers as their "comrades," and the Italians may one day have to fight side by side with their old foes, and against their old liberators. This situation of Europe shows how powerless mere sentiment is, and what a dominant influence is possessed by hard facts. The Italians forget 1859, and the memories of Magenta and Solferino; they only think of a possible invasion of the French. The Bulgarians ignore the truth that but for Russia they would now be slaves to the Turk; they simply detest Muscovite officials, who treated them while at Sofia with brutality and contempt. Austria forgives Sadowa, and cheers the grandson of the victor. Germany shows little gratitude for the Russian neutrality of 1870, that kept Austria from her flank. Will the sentimental sorrow for Alsace survive for ever in France? Or will the Republic hesitate to fling good money after bad—to spend half-a-million lives to avenge the half-million sacrificed eighteen years ago, and perhaps lose two more provinces in a vain attempt to recover the one already lost? Whatever be the French decision—peace through wise fear or war as the last throw of a political gambler—the central rock of the European League of Peace is likely to stand firm against the tide of Northern advance or the fury of Western onset.

Under the title of "The Mahratta Plough," an article has been contributed to the current number of the "Asiatic Quarterly Review," by Sir George Birdwood, which has the twofold merit of containing admirable pictures of rural life in India, and of rebuking the uninstructed passion of certain home reformers to turn that country upside down with needless "improvements." The author, whose acquaintance with his subject is intimate, points out how the entire system of existence in the Deccan centres in the simple wooden plough with which the husbandman scratches rather than turns over his rich black soil. It is, however, the steadfast labour of the tiller which makes that implement the symbol of peace and prosperity. Sir George Birdwood quotes Pliny, and tells a story of the Roman freedman who, having found himself able, from a very small piece of land, to raise a more abundant harvest than his neighbours, was accused of enticing away their crops by sorcery. Pointing to his firmly-hafted mattock, stoutly-bound plough, and sleek oxen, all of which he had collected in his defence before the magistrate, "Here, Roman citizens," he cried, "are my implements of magic; but it is impossible for me to exhibit to your view, or to bring into this Forum, those midnight toils of mine, those early watchings, those sweats, and those fatigues." It is the plainness of the indigenous plough of the Mahratta country, and the patient industry of its owner, which not once, but twice, in each year brings about the same magical result throughout India. This plough the peasant makes for himself at a cost of about five shillings, sometimes going into the extravagance of another shilling or eightpence to carve the rude figure of a god upon the "dant," or the drill-box. It was attempted once to reproduce the artless implement in England, and to undersell thereby the native manufacturers. The model is as rude as the single stilt of the Shetlands or the foot-plough of the Hebrides, which the husbandman carries home at night upon his shoulder; but, with all our Western resources, it could not be turned out so well as the ryot makes it. He ploughs his field only once in two years, in some places only once in five or six; but the dry dust off the trap rocks, blowing in the hot season into the cracks of the ground, renews it sufficiently with a regular top-dressing, the wind and the sun thus performing the part of the Nile in Egypt. What manure can be scraped up is used for the gardens, except that once a year the Hindoo burns the refuse of the homestead upon his field, and treads the ashes into his rice-grounds when the rains arrive. If he wants a heavier plough he ties a big stone upon the share beam, or stands on the "dandi," and with this, and the yila or sickle, the koeta or billhook, and the kerdli or pick, India is mainly cultivated. The Indian farmer threshes with the feet of his oxen on a hard open-air floor, winnows in the wind with a fan, grinds his grain with two round stones, and stores it in large conical jars or wicker baskets; and all these articles are as ancient in shape as the plough itself, which is identical with the specimen depicted on Esarhaddon's obelisk in the Assyrian collection.

Sir George Birdwood relates in his most interesting and valuable paper how some of our precipitate reformers wanted to introduce the steam plough among these primitive but perfectly contented husbandmen. He remembers the exotic novelty being brought into use in one of the native States in the Bombay Presidency. It was led out festooned with roses and jasmine, like an Indian bridegroom, into a rich black soil field, and all those who were called together to witness the prodigies it was to perform were also wreathed with roses, touched on the hands and foreheads with atar, and sprinkled over with rose water. Then with a snort, and a shriek, and a puff of steam, the gigantic mechanism made a vigorous, loud-hissing rush forward; but, the share struck gradually downward, until, after vainly struggling for awhile against its novel task, it at last settled silently in the soft, yielding soil. Nothing could be done with it as a steam plough. It had been recklessly brought into a system wherein it had no place, except as another god, and a new god it was at once made. As soon as it could be moved out of the field it was sided into the village temple hard by, and there its huge steel share was set up on end, bedaubed red, and worshipped as a symbol of Siva; and there it stands an object of mystified worship to this day, in Jamkhandi. In a word, the Indian plough belongs, like other Indian implements, and the "ways and means" in general of Indian rural life, to the people of the land, and it is doubtful if anything could be better for them. It is questionable if improved and alien modes of cultivation could produce better results in the long run than the patient old-fashioned methods of the Hindu peasant, whose daily existence is modelled upon the simplicity of his plough. Sir George Birdwood sketches with singular fidelity of detail the regular diurnal experience of these peaceful and, on the whole, happy agriculturists of India. The "house father" rises before dawn, worships the family gods, rolls his rough cigar of tobacco-shreds in a leaf of apta, and, taking the cakes baked for him overnight, and tied up by his wife with a pickle or an onion, starts for the field with his yoke of oxen. There he works until broad daylight, and then takes his breakfast; to resume his labour afterwards until it is noon. As he quits his cottage the voice of his wife is heard singing while she drives the "chark" round to grind meal enough for the day, after which she sweeps the house and yard, waters the sacred tutsi-plant, and stencils the threshold with coloured patterns, before proceeding to cook fresh cakes for the day's dinner. These, or a pot of highly spiced pulse soup, she is careful to carry to her husband by twelve o'clock. So from half-an-hour to an hour is spent; and then up to two or half-past two o'clock the men lie down to sleep, where they had eaten, on their cumblis, or black woollen blankets. While they sleep, the women dine off the scraps that are left, and then either return to their houses at once to attend to whatever may be wanted to be done there, and to prepare the supper, or spend an hour or two in helping their spouses in the field before repairing home. After this the Indian peasants re-yoke their cattle and work until sunset, when they saunter in long winding lines towards their respective villages, walking along leisurely, chatting and laughing, always keeping their oxen before them. Then, after tying up the cattle, bathing, and again worshipping the household gods, the husband at eight o'clock has his supper of pulse porridge. At night-fall the social life within the village bursts into its brightest, happiest activity. The temples of the gods are in turn all visited; or the villagers sit under the great tree at the mandal and hear stories, or gossip, or discuss the prospects of the crops. In brief, the Hindu villager in his quiet way has realised the ideal of the Western working man, and divides his day into three periods of eight hours each—for work, for meals and social intercourse, and for sleep.

They are certainly very poor, these Deccan peasants; but the word is after all relative, and their wants being few, and justice and peace secured to them by the strong and righteous British Government, they are probably the very happiest rural population on the earth. Every month—almost every week—there occurs some religious festival, while a marriage, a birth ceremony, or a funeral feast helps to keep the little community in topics for chat and pleasurable excitement. There is, truly, as much ignorant nonsense talked about the religious ideas and practices of the mass of Hindu cultivators as about their modes of agriculture and their social moralities. Hindu theology is a very elastic creed, with simple doctrines for the unlearned and subtle ones for the wise. Thus the Monkey-God Hanuman, who is worshipped in so many of these Deccan hamlets, may be to the innocent Indian girl only a deity of the woods, an Oriental hamadryad—but to the Brahman sage the personification of the gleams of glad light leaping along the Syhadri forests, or the cloud-shadows dancing with monkey swiftness from grove to grove. The people are well described in this notable paper. "The Mahratta women of the rayat class," it says, "although they soon lose the good looks of their girlhood, are a fine, healthy race, tall and straight-grown, modest, frank, and chatty; and in their yellow, or shot red and purple bodices, and dark green or indigo blue cloths, appear everywhere, in the fields or in the village streets, pleasant objects. The ladies of the higher castes, and particularly the deshast Brahmanis, are very comely. They are all known at a glance by their great beauty and richer clothing; and as one of them paces past in her flowing sari of crimson, gold-bordered, nothing can be nobler than its glow against her olive flesh-tints, as it waves round her erect figure, and ripples in folds about her feet." A lively recollection of this patient and contented peasantry, and of the rural life which impresses upon all who have studied it the same conclusions, leads Sir George Birdwood to deprecate rash and sudden reforms for India, which he declares to be an extremely happy land. The true business of Government there is to foster and gently develop the village life, and even Christianity, he avers, with a noble boldness, should seek, "not to destroy, but to purify Hinduism." "The truth is," observes this remarkable paper, which is full of lessons of experience and eye-witness for our stay-at-home reformers—"that closet publicists and politicians, trained in the competitive political principles of the West, do not sufficiently distinguish between the prosperity of a country and the felicity of its inhabitants. Indeed, they do not discern the distinction. They dwell among their books, and not with the people; and that men do not live by bread alone is one of the strongest facts of life in India, albeit absolutely hidden from their eyes."

It is one of the symptoms of the general desire of mankind to be as lazy as possible, and yet obtain the maximum of comfort with the minimum of exertion, that the principle of what may be called automatism is very dominant in our midst. It is as if the world in its old age were in truth returning to second childhood, that happy baby-period in which everything was done for us by others, and personal energy of any sort was strictly forbidden. For the baby is washed, clothed, and fed by other people, and is, in truth, the very personification of selfish laziness. It may be that this is all the result of an artful conspiracy among the baby-race generally, and that they are really quite able to look after their own welfare, but, on the lazy principle afore-mentioned, put off the evil moment of individualism as long as possible; and it is indeed marvellous that the young of the human species should be more absolutely helpless, foolish, and downright stupid for the earlier part of its life than the young of any other creature whatsoever. A little caterpillar will not only turn over, but devours a new leaf from the instant of its birth; a fluffy little yellow chick, or pale-olive duckling, will start life with a vigour and voracity that put all the babies to shame; and even the blind puppies and kittens, while yet in the tottering, tumbling stage, are seemingly more full of vitality than the little pink person in the bassinet, whose inveterate laziness and general "laissez-faire" principles make him the temporary tyrant of the household. So, it seems, is it with children of a larger growth. We, too, want to be clothed, fed, warmed, and looked after automatically. Thus it comes that the put-a-penny-in-the-slot system has in quite recent days reached such a pitch, and we can have sweets, or cigarettes, or matches, or photographs of celebrities or notorieties, or postcards, or what you will, without the trouble of a bargain and contract with the merchant of these commodities, and simple mechanism takes the place of the intricacies of the law. Our cabdoors open and shut automatically; we go up and down stairs automatically; and the, as yet, undeveloped powers of the phonograph and the telephone are simply automatic methods to save us the trouble of writing letters. So far we are not exactly fed automatically, and, though we have reduced the necessity of helping ourselves to the mere drill of knife, fork, and spoon, and given up carving, the infant bottle has not made its appearance at our adult banquets. We still put on our own clothes, but no doubt some machine will yet be invented which will tumble us out of bed in the morning, perform all necessary processes of ablution, and, passing us through various processes, will ultimately turn us out spick-and-span, generally "washed and brushed up," and prepared to face the world and the day's work or amusement. When, however, we turn to the highly-interesting question of caloric, so all-important in this fitful climate of ours, we find that science has, indeed, if we are to believe in an American source of information, been making rapid, nay giant, strides.

Now, in a certain scientific sense, the whole of life consists in the search for, the acquiring, the storing, and the using of heat. All forms of energy, so the wise tell us, are forms of heat. Whether we are warming our toes at the fire, wrapping ourselves in our furs, diving under the blankets, or consuming carbon in various guises, we are obeying the great law of what may be roughly called the "give and take of heat." When the temperature produced is to our liking, we follow the example of the personage of old who made a fire and said, "Ha, ha! I am warm! I have seen the fire!" though, of course, it is not essential that in all cases we should follow his peculiar form of fire-worshipping theology. But fire-places will smoke, in spite of all manner of fearful creaking zinc monsters set up to writhe in agony on chimney-tops as "cures;" flues will go wrong; stoves will develope a dangerous tendency to asphyxiate their possessors; the foot-warmer of the railway carriage, the somewhat extinct warming-pan—rarely seen nowadays save in pantomimes—and the homely hot-water jar, are not only liable to accident, but may not be always procurable. The problem then is, How can everybody be his own carrier of caloric? Cannot science devise some means whereby mankind shall carry heat with them and about them, even as they can bottle up electricity in accumulators, and indent their friends' voices on one of Edison's new waxen cylinders? Science, in the person of an anonymous American inventor—and there is really no one so terribly clever as an American inventor whose name never transpires, and whose invention dies for lack of support—has made bold affirmative answer. Such fascinating cries as "Every man his own lawyer," or "Why pay for anything, when by our Mutual Co-operative Joint Bonus Double-distilled System of Interchangeable International Coupons you can naturally make your fortune," are puny, puling things when compared with the solemn grandeur, the grateful glow of the voice that proclaims aloud, "Every man and woman his, and her, own hot-water apparatus!" The new personal steam-heater is to be a "small affair, consisting of a copper boiler, under which is a diminutive lamp, all encased in a nickel box, and balanced somewhat like a compass, so that no matter what position the outside box is in the boiler and lamp will always remain in the required vertical position." This small affair you place in your pocket, lighting the lamp; the water heats in the boiler, and circulates through rubber tubes which "run down the legs, up around the back, and back to the boiler"; and thus, enveloped as it were in the embrace of a warm Gulf-stream, the body is kept in a frost-defying state of comfort on the coldest day. Then Science, according to the anonymous Transatlantic, takes care to add a "safety-valve and escape for a higher pressure of steam than the affair is allowed to carry, which flows off at the back of the wearer's neck." Thus we shall see the new generation of men cooling down by the very obvious process of blowing off their steam, and it is to be trusted that the safety-valve will be so constructed as to abolish all danger of the wearers blowing themselves up. There is no mention of a thermometer in the early prospectus before us, and this should be seen to. Suppose, for instance, a gentleman of chilly habit, but fully furnished with the personal steam-heater, entered a church, a theatre, or an omnibus, and radiated more heat than his neighbours fancied, it would be only polite to call his attention to the rising mercury or the steam gauge worn as a breast pin, and say, "Sir, you may not be aware that you are working at forty pounds pressure, and are rapidly approaching bursting point." A steam whistle might also be advantageously added to the ingenious invention, which would be useful for hailing hansoms; and, indeed, there are no limits to the variety of purposes to which the new patent could be applied. A person of sedentary habits could dispense with the use of hens, and do his incubating at home while engaged on some great literary work, and at the same time, by skilful direction of the heat, cook an omelette in his pocket with such eggs as were not destined for maturity.

Special arrangements, it is stated, have been made for the convenience of ladies, in whose behalf elaborate heaters are being constructed. It is affirmed that they can be worn "entirely concealed inside the 'improver,'"—the word in the original is more homely—and it is pointed out that "before the lady leaves the house her maid can light the lamp, which, by the way, is gauged to run six, eight, or ten hours." Maids would do well to be cautious in trimming their lamps, for it would be awkward if, in consequence of adopting a wrong "gauge," a sudden coolness set in between the fair wearer and her devoted admirer in the course of an interesting conversation, and the "escape of steam at the back of the wearer's neck" is a matter that will undoubtedly require careful adjustment, in view—in full view—of modern evening dresses. Moreover, the possible bursting of the boiler, when "located" as indicated, is a question that demands the most close and careful attention to detail. Curiously enough, this idea of portable personal heat is not a new fancy. The inhabitants of northern Kashmir carry about braziers of live coals wherewith to warm themselves; and when the low-lying fens and marshes of Holland are all ice and the sky is sullen and leaden, when the birds are too cold to sing, and all nature is frozen out, the women of that country go about with little earthenware pots, containing lighted charcoal, and on Sundays take them to church and keep up their temperature by sitting over them. This practice certainly does not obtain here, but there is a parallel device known to many a schoolmistress, and many a kindly young lady "organist," whose art is by the nature of things and the limited income of the village church restricted to the conditions of an occasionally solemn harmonium, and it consists in a hot baked potato. Deftly wrapped in a stocking and surreptitiously smuggled into church in a muff, the genial hot potato has long succeeded in warming the numbed fingers that without its help would indeed have "wandered idly over the noisy keys," in vain attempt to struggle with the all but entirely lost chords of Somebody in F, what time Christmas cards and anthems come round. At the secret nickel box, the copper boiler, the network of indiarubber tubing, the compass lamp, and the steam escape we have not as yet arrived; but it is a progressive age, and we wait and expect further developments. Meanwhile it is only just to observe that the full plans and specifications, and a working model of the new invention, have yet to reach these shores; but we have unbounded faith in ambitious American "notions," and feel no hesitation in saying that the proprietor and promoter of this latest idea is certain to find himself in hot water as soon as the shares are fully paid up.

Among the many more or less disquieting rumours which have emanated from Berlin during the past few weeks, surely the most alarming and, let us hasten to add, the most incredible is the report to which wide publicity has been given that the performance of the ballet has been abolished in all German theatres, opera houses, and music-halls. In consequence of this rigorous exercise of authority, it is stated, hundreds of young women have been thrown out of employment, and great distress during the coming winter is expected among the poor of Berlin. As regards the ballet in its connection with the opera in the Prussian capital, the inaccuracy of the statement now in circulation is practically self-evident. The Opern Haus at Berlin vies with the Académie de Musique at Paris, La Scala at Milan, and the St. Carlo at Naples, as a choregraphic theatre of the very highest class, where ballets have for at least a hundred years been represented with the utmost pomp and magnificence, and with the aid of the most brilliant terpsichorean talent available in Europe; and, so highly have the attractions of pantomimic dancing always been estimated in Berlin, that very frequently opera has been altogether removed from the programme, and the entire evening devoted to an elaborate and splendidly-appointed ballet, such as we have of recent years enjoyed the advantage of seeing at our own Alhambra and Empire Theatres. For many years the director of the ballet at the Berlin Opern Haus was M. Paul Taglioni, and under his auspices a long succession of sumptuously picturesque ballets were produced in a theatre which belongs to the Crown, and the management of which is directly controlled by the State, just as is the case in the Imperial Theatres of St. Petersburg and Moscow. If there be a scintilla of truth in the paragraph now going the round of the press touching the "abolition" of the ballet in Germany, it probably exists in the circumstance that the police have interfered to restrict irregular ballet performances at some of the minor theatres of Berlin, and especially at the music-halls and "museums," where "fish-fag quadrilles," "cellar-flaps," and "break-downs," executed by ladies in whose attire decorum is somewhat conspicuous by its absence, may have scandalised the Prussian purists. It is, nevertheless, almost impossible to believe that anything approaching a wholesale abolition of the ballet can have been contemplated by any authority or authorities in the Fatherland; and, were it even the case that the Prussian Government had prohibited ballet entertainments within strictly Prussian territory, it is obvious that not the Prussian but the Federal Legislature would have to be consulted ere these entertainments could be abrogated throughout the German Reich. The Sovereigns of Saxony, of Bavaria, Wurtemburg, Baden, and a whole host of minor Grand Duchies and Duchies are still lords paramount over the theatres in their respective capitals; while in Frankfort and Hamburg the temples of the drama are controlled by the municipality, with whose management of the establishments, the cost of which is defrayed by the local citizens, it would be assuredly not only impolitic but absolutely absurd to meddle.

While, however, we must positively decline to give credence to that which in all likelihood is the veriest of cock-and-bull stories, it is impossible to deny that there is a considerable section of the community in England, and one entitled to much respect, who would gladly see the ballet abolished. Denunciation of the drama in general in this country is a much older agitation than the opposition to the special feature of the ballet. It began with the Puritans in Elizabeth's time, in whom bigotry and a sour hatred of all amusements was probably quickened, and to a certain extent engendered, by the teachings of the sincerely ascetic and self-mortifying monks who had been driven from the monasteries at the Dissolution; for there is no more curious fact in the social history of England than that what we now call the "serious classes"—the worthy and conscientious folks who think not only stage-plays, but public and private dancing, to be so much abominable iniquity—were never heard of before the Reformation, prior to which upheaval the people at large were as devout, and withal as jovial, as the pilgrims who journeyed to Canterbury in Chaucer's time. They delighted in miracle-plays, in mayings, and morris-dances, and all manner of merry sports and pastimes; while the ascetics, who would have reprehended such high jinks, kept to the seclusion of their cloisters. At the Dissolution, however, they were forced to leave their cells; they were in the world but not of it, and they deemed it their duty to rail against the revels which the world delighted in. The grim censure of theatrical performances, so often and so divertingly glanced at by Ben Jonson and his contemporaries, was later on still further accentuated by the vast learning and the insatiable bitterness of Prynne, who could quote Fathers of the Church by the score and decisions of Councils by the dozen in proof of the wickedness of plays and players. Both were proscribed during the Civil Wars and the Protectorate; while at the Restoration Puritanic censure of the stage continued to be justified in the eyes of respectability by the unquestionable profligacy of the plays of Dryden and Wycherley—a profligacy which continued to disfigure the English drama until the beginning of the next century, and which furnished Jeremy Collier with a formidable array of texts for the terrible indictment that he drew against the immorality of the stage. Collier's book and Prynne's more elaborate and more wearisome "Histriomastix" have long since become forgotten save by bookworms; but their anathemas against the drama and its professors sank deep into the hearts of the "serious classes." Fortunately for the prospects of a civilising and ennobling art, the drama was rescued from the slough of disparagement by the steady growth of the knowledge and influence of Shakespeare. As, generation after generation, the sun of his pure and majestic drama shone brighter and brighter in the heavens, the foul mists and fogs that had veiled its splendour were dispelled; and, while ignoble and ribald dramatists were dismissed to well-merited oblivion and contempt, the plays of Shakespeare regained their ancient power and popularity, and once more served as models for dramatic compositions in which mere indecency was scouted, and the better teachings of the mighty master were reverentially followed.

The case of the ballet in England is altogether different. The opposition which this fascinating form of entertainment has from time to time encountered has not been exclusively of a sectarian nature. Indeed, the politicians have had many a time and oft quite as much to do with denouncing ballets and ballet-dancers as the moralists. In March, 1798, the Bishop of Durham made a furious speech in the House of Lords against the spectacular ballets by French artists which were then attracting crowds to the King's Theatre. The right reverend peer "considered it a consequence of the gross immoralities imported of late years into this kingdom from France, the Directory of which country, finding that they were not able to subdue us by their arms, appeared as if they were determined to gain their ends by destroying our morals. They had sent over persons to this country who made the most indecent exhibitions in our theatres—exhibitions which would not have been allowed even in France, and which, so far from being allowable in a Christian country, would have disgraced the ancient theatres of Paris and Rome." In conclusion he announced his intention of moving for an address to the King, "beseeching him to order all such persons out of the kingdom as people who were likely to destroy our morality and religion, and who were very probably in the pay of France." This amusingly intolerant tirade led to nothing beyond making the Bishop for some months afterwards the constant butt of the caricaturists; but it is equally diverting and curious to remark that the Bishop of Durham's lead was followed full twenty years afterwards by that edifying exemplar of virtue and morality, Theodore Hook. He abhorred, to begin with, private dancing in general, and the waltz in particular; but with an opera ballet he had no kind of patience. He held that nobody upon earth could be bold enough to assert that the horizontal elevation of the female leg, the rapid twisting of the body, and the subsequent expansion of the arms were graceful attitudes; and he contended that none save those whose intellects and appetites were more debased than those of men in general could feel either amusement or gratification in such an exhibition. "But," he indignantly continued, "if there really be men who take delight in the 'Ionici motus' of the Italian opera, surely our own women should be spared the sight of such indelicacies; nothing which the Roman satirists mention as tending to destroy the delicate feelings of the female sex could possibly be worse than those which, week after week, may be seen in the Haymarket." This was pretty well for Mr. Theodore Hook, ex-Treasurer of the Mauritius, member of Crockford's, and eminent respecter of the delicate feelings of the female sex in his foul and ribald abuse of the injured Queen Caroline. The female sex in England have shown their contemptuous appreciation of Mr. Hook's solicitude for their morals by patronising a long line of splendid ballets and accomplished ballet-dancers. Taglioni, Fanny Elsler, Cerito, Carlotta Grisi, Duvernay have had as many admirers among the lady frequenters of our theatres as among the gentlemen. With the public at large well-mounted and well-danced ballets have not lost one iota of their popularity, and the only complaint which is rife among lovers of the poetry of motion is that, although splendid spectacles and well-trained and graceful coryphées are easily to be obtained, really great danseuses are few and far between, and are growing rarer every year.

KAISER WILHELM'S TOUR.

[TELEGRAM FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.]

VIENNA, Oct. 7.

On arriving at Murzteg on Friday evening the two Emperors and their brilliant retinue were met by Count de Meran and the Styrian county-gentlemen invited to take part in the forthcoming sport.

Yesterday morning, as the Imperial party were starting for Schwarzenbach, a Styrian bugle-duet was played on the opposite mountain-side. This rural salute, echoing and re-echoing amongst the snow-peaked heights, produced a grand and impressive effect.

The hearty welcome afforded to the two Monarchs by the inhabitants testified to the popularity enjoyed by the Emperor Franz-Joseph in the romantic Styrian highlands, where his Majesty is infinitely more at home than at the Bourg Palace in Vienna. Unfortunately, owing to the thick mantle of snow which covers the upper mountain regions, a change had to be made in the programme, and the Imperial "Nimrods" had to content themselves with such sport as could be procured in the lower shooting tracts, where reddeer is plentiful but chamois scarce.

It is not necessary, however, to travel so far and climb so high to get the very best deer-shooting. It can be had in the Imperial preserves close to Vienna, and nothing but the prospect of first-rate chamois-shooting would have taken the two Emperors to the top of the Styrian Alps at this time of the year. In this country, to go out in search of chamois, and only to find deer, is like in England to count upon pheasant-shooting and having to be satisfied with rooks; but yesterday the freshly-fallen snow lay so thick on the rocks and the precipitous mountain-paths, that an ascent to the elevated regions was not practicable. Large and small game is abundant on the lower slopes and in the sheltered valleys, as the Emperor's preserves are rarely shot over by anybody but members of the Imperial family and their guests.

The result of yesterday's shooting was as follows:

The Emperor Franz-Joseph, one hind; the German Emperor, nothing; the King of Saxony, two stags and two hinds; Prince Leopold of Bavaria, two stags; and the Grand-Duke of Tuscany, one stag. Other members of the party shot six stags and nine hinds.

Towards noon it began to snow and to rain, and the temperature fell considerably, so the sport had to be interrupted.

In the afternoon Crown Prince Rudolph left Mürzteg for Gorgeny, where he is going on a bear-shooting expedition with the Prince of Wales.

Dinner was served at the imperial Chalet at six o'clock, and the distinguished company afterwards went to see the booty of the day's chase, which had been laid out on the lawn in front. One stag shot by the King of Saxony had remarkably fine antlers, which will doubtless be presented to his Majesty in due course.

To-day the two Emperors, the King of Saxony, and a few members of the party were to go deer-stalking, as the continuation of bad weather would render chamois-shooting impossible. In the way of amusements the two Emperors and their companions have a local band that plays Styrian music with great proficiency, but that is absolutely all.

On a previous occasion Kaiser Franz-Joseph and his friend the King of Saxony had strayed some distance from their comrades of the chase, and coming up with a peasant's cart they asked the occupant to give them a lift. The latter did not recognise them, as they were both attired in Styrian dress, but readily acceded to their request. On taking leave of him the Emperor told him who they were. The peasant smiled incredulously and said, "Well, friend, if you be the Emperor of Austria and your companion the King of Saxony, I had better tell you who I am. My good fellows, I am his Holiness the Pope!" With this he drove off, delighted at having, as he thought, the best of the joke.

On the morning of the 10th inst. Kaiser Wilhelm will start from Murzzuschlag, on the Southern Railroad, for Rome, via Villach and Pontebba. The Presse states that his Majesty's itinerary has been modified, and that on his way back to Berlin he purposes paying another visit to Vienna and staying here for a few days.

During the Emperor William's absence his suite are being entertained in Vienna, where the Burgomaster and Municipality are contributing to make their stay as pleasant as possible.

The German Kaiser has presented the Emperor of Austria with a handsome album containing eighteen photographs selected by the donor, and representing a series of illustrations of the Army-manœuvres at Muncheberg. The photographs are executed with great artistic skill, and were accepted with many expressions of admiration by the imperial recipient.

The Empress of Austria left Schönbrunn yesterday evening for Miramar, where she was to embark to-day on one of the Imperial yachts for a cruise down the Adriatic to Corfu.

Yesterday Prime-Minister Tisza gave a dinner-party at the Casino Club at Buda-Pest in honour of Count Herbert Bismarck. The members of the Hungarian Government, the military commander of the town, and M. Szögyenyi, of the Foreign-Office, were amongst M. Tisza's guests. The Hungarian Premier is a fanatical admirer of Count Herbert Bismarck's father. Foreign politics are not M. Tisza's strong point; but he has a blind faith in the alliance with Germany, and trusts implicitly its illustrious promoter.

The Duchess of Edinburgh arrived at Rome yesterday with her children, and was received at the railway station by Baron Meyendorff and Mr. Kennedy, the Chargés d'Affaires of Russia and England respectively. Her Royal and Imperial Highness and Royal children are expected to embark at Naples on Thursday next on board the despatch vessel Surprise, Commander the Hon. M. A. Bourke, on their way to Malta. The Duke of Edinburgh is to arrive at Malta on Saturday, when he concludes his summer cruise with the Mediterranean fleet.

Viscount and Viscountess Cranborne have joined the family circle at Hatfield House, Herts, from the Châlet Cecil, near Dieppe.

The Duchess Dowager of Marlborough and Lady Sarah Spencer Churchill have arrived on a visit to the Duke and Duchess of Cleveland, at Raby Castle, Darlington, from Scotland.

Viscountess Bury and family have taken Harbord House, Overstrand, near Cromer, for the month of October. Lord Bury has gone to Harrogate for a course of waters.

Lord and Lady Herschell are expected to leave Grosvenor Gardens at the end of the week for Naples, where they take the steamer for passage to Bombay. They are expected to remain in India till March.

The Archbishop of Canterbury will be absent from home during this week. To-morrow and Wednesday his Lordship attends the Diocesan Conference at Canterbury, and will afterwards visit the parishes in the diocese.

Sir Charles and Lady Dilke left London on Saturday afternoon for Liverpool, where they remain until Wednesday, when they sail for India.

PARIS DAY BY DAY.

[BY SPECIAL WIRE.]

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

PARIS, Sunday Night.

The shade of Philibert Delorme, the architect of the Palace of the Tuileries, a building which is now no more, would have been thoroughly disgusted could it have revisited Paris to-day. A popular Kermesse, or "Fair," with all its adjuncts, in the form of merry-go-rounds, menageries, and mountebanks' booths, was in full blast on the Place du Carrousel. Parisian citizens and their wives and children poured pell-mell, at one franc a head, into the strip of land between the Rue de Rivoli and the river, whence the wooden structures of the General Post Office have at length been removed. Pezon's lions growled where once re-echoed the sounds of inspiriting music at Royal or Imperial balls; and Corvi's acrobats, Cocherie's itinerant strollers, and the fascinating houri "Feridjo" with her serpents, negroes and eunuchs, occupied ground which was at one time trodden by lovely ladies and gallant cavaliers. The Fête on the Place du Carrousel to-day was like that in the "Mock Bastille" yesterday in aid of the sufferers from fire in French Guiana. The weather was rather stormy and unsettled during the two events, and the festivities at the Bastille were temporarily interrupted by a shower. This did not, however, seriously interfere with the programme, which, including the "Cour d'Amour," was carried out to the letter despite the absence of two or three popular actresses who turned renegades at the last moment. Balloons were also sent up at the Fêtes, and this afternoon thousands of Parisians were gazing skywards at half-a-dozen aërostats which ascended in the bright but biting air.

Winter is beginning early in the East of France, where but a week ago a summer-temperature was enjoyed. Snow fell to-day at Pontarlier, in the Department of the Doubs, the streets being covered with a layer four inches in depth.

It is now admitted on all sides that M. Floquet's chief object in issuing the Decree relative to foreigners resident in France was to curry favour with the native working-classes. It is a favourite cry with the French ouvrier that his foreign competitor in the labour market is taking the bread out of his mouth, and it was with an eye to the possibilities of the next General Election that the Premier drew up this Decree and asked the President to sign it; yet it is a recognised fact that the French ouvrier turns up his nose at much of the work done by immigrants. He has, for example, no particular taste or vocation for the sort of labour undertaken by "navvies." In short, the same state of things exists in France that has long been noticed in some of the Balkan States, where various trades and certain kinds of manual labour are almost exclusively represented by persons from the surrounding countries. Even among the French themselves the rule holds good, the charbonniers nearly invariably hailing from Auvergne, while most of the vendors of fruit and vegetables in the metropolis are Normans. The Englishman is as much prized as a coachman or groom as is the Hungarian in some other countries further East. Surely if the qualifications were equal the Frenchman would be preferred to the foreigners by native employers. M. Henry Fouquier—and a better or more impartial judge could not be found—points out truly to-day that the millions spent by our own fellow-countrymen on the Channel and Mediterranean coasts, to say nothing of Paris, must far exceed whatever sum may be earned by English workmen at the expense of their French comrades. Then Americans, Spaniards, and Russians, as well as visitors of other nationalities, must also be taken into account. Would it be argued for one moment that next year's Exhibition would be held on such a grand scale if it were understood that not a single foreigner would come to Paris to see it? No one would ever venture to contend that such a thing could be possible, and for the best of reasons. Meanwhile M. Henry Fouquier predicts that the New Regulations will really "put a spoke" in the Exhibition "wheel," and deplores the excessive "zeal" displayed by Ministers, all of whom have at least a hundred times in their lives complained of the useless and vexatious "inquisition" of the police. I may add that during the past two days 1,439 foreigners have called at the Prefecture of Police. The Belgians were largely in the majority; Swiss and Germans coming next, while the Russians followed at a fair distance. On Friday only twenty-five English "put in an appearance," and yesterday only forty-six. On the two days respectively nineteen and seventeen Americans called. Norwegians, Bulgarians, Swedes, Portuguese, and Venezuelans were represented on one day or the other by units. Belgium headed the list with 339, Mexico and Bulgaria coming last with one. The "Service" is now working well, and yesterday morning people were only kept waiting ten minutes—the average in the afternoon was half-an-hour. Yesterday Mr. Egerton, British Chargé d'Affaires, called at the Quai d'Orsay to ask M. Goblet if travellers came under the stipulations of the Decree, and was assured by the Minister for Foreign Affairs that they were not expected to conform to the New Regulations—indeed, the Government is nervously anxious that this should be bruited about as much as possible. It is a case of the more the merrier when people come on pleasure bent with a goodly supply of bank-notes, but of the fewer the better when a living has to be earned under the shadow of the tricolour flag.

To-day Lyons was en fête in honour of the visit of the President of the Republic. There was a luncheon at the Hôtel de Ville, which was given to the President by the Chamber of Commerce, after which M. Carnot went to the Hôtel-Dieu, the oldest hospital in France. At three o'clock this afternoon there was a review of the troops under the command of General Davout Duc d'Auerstadt. Enthusiasm was everywhere evinced, although the rain was heavy enough at times to damp the spirits, as well as the gay holiday garb of the citizens and the brilliant bunting, which was displayed in profusion. The President, who has no doubt grown tired of speech-making, did not delay his auditors very long at the banquet which was given to him last night by the Municipality of Lyons, and contented himself with throwing a shaft at those enemies of the Republic who were organising the most astounding coalitions, in order to bring about its overthrow, a contingency which could never occur while the Democracy stood faithful and united. The progress of the President attracts but little attention in Paris, where people are more prone to speculate just now on the next "boom" of General Boulanger.

The Government has at last decided on prosecuting M. Numa Gilly, mayor of Nimes and Deputy for the Department of the Gard, for having asserted that there were "twenty Wilsons" in the Estimates-committee. As Parliament is not sitting, the sanction of the Chamber has not to be solicited, and the proceedings can be commenced at once. This is all the better, as M. Numa Gilly professes to be delighted with the arrangement, and his ally, M. Henri Rochefort, is prepared to step at any moment into the witness-box with any number of "revelations" of the most piquant kind, as he declares. It was M. Andrieux, himself a member of the Committee, who brought matters to a head by indicting a letter to the Minister of Justice, asking that M. Numa Gilly might be brought to trial. In a characteristic epistle the Deputy for the Department of the Gard effusively thanks M. Andrieux for the service he had done him, and takes the opportunity of announcing that he never dreamed of including the ex-Prefect of Police among the "black sheep"; but, by way of a set-off to this acknowledgment of the virtues of M. Andrieux, he expresses a doubt as to whether "two former colleagues of M. Ferry" are quite so anxious to see the affair threshed out. Some queer statements, which will doubtless be refuted, may be anticipated when the trial comes off, but whether anything will be gained by this prosecution is a question which may be answered beforehand with tolerable confidence in the negative. We have lately seen how various fantastic charges brought against a near relative of "The Man of Tonkin" fell to the ground when the matter was referred to the law-courts, the result being the complete discomfiture of that gentleman's accusers; nor is M. Numa Gilly likely to be successful on the ground on which M. Henri Rochefort has failed—but there is nothing like putting a good face on the matter.

Some sharp and speedily-despatched business has lately been performed by M. Goron, Head of the Paris Detective Department. Last Monday he went to London for the purpose of obtaining information from the members of the "Long Firm" known here as the "band of Catusse, Allmayer, and Company," who have been arrested in England. Owing to the restrictions of the English law, however, M. Goron was unable to question the prisoners. He had therefore to await the extradition of one of the swindlers, Ménégand by name, and when this person arrived in Calais M. Goron was able to find out from him that some of the "band" were still hiding in England. Nevertheless, M. Goron, after having sent the descriptions of the criminals who are still at liberty to Scotland Yard, went to Brussels in order to make further investigations. While in the Belgian capital he received a telegram from Paris informing him that a German named Fleich, who had murdered a man outside Paris, was lurking in Brussels under the name of "Weber." The detective immediately set to work, and half an hour after the arrival of the Paris telegram he had the handcuffs on Fleich, who had only lately arrived in Brussels and was hiding in the house of a friend.

M. Goron has, since his investigations in London, made several further important captures. The man Ménégand has given useful information, which has led to the capture of some of his confederates, to one of whom, a dangerous character called "Robert," he stated that he gave the diamonds stolen from the jeweller in the Rue Notre-Dame de Nazareth. These articles were valued at £6,000, and "Robert" asserts that he gave them to a receiver of stolen goods, who threw them into the Seine. The particular part of the river mentioned by the thieves has been dragged without any result, and it is now believed that the diamonds, like most of the other property stolen or fraudulently obtained by the "firm," have been sent to the British capital. M. Goron has brought back from London £4,000 worth of stolen securities, which he obtained by threats of "extradition proceedings" from clandestine commission-agents of French nationality near Leicester-square. The "accountant-general" or "receiver" of the band—a fellow called Chevalier—has not yet been discovered. It appears that he was in the habit of going to London once a month with valuable securities, which he handed over to the shady commission-agents, who converted them into cash at the first opportunity. Among the other members of the "band" who are wanted is a fellow named "Jean" or "Eugène Fritch," who has already been in the hands of the English police, but was discharged, as the description of him sent from Paris was inaccurate. A most dangerous marauder, "Edgard Anspacher," nicknamed the "Man with the cut ear," as part of one of his auricular organs was snapped off by the teeth of an antagonist with whom he had a squabble about a woman in the Faubourg Montmartre, has been arrested in Brussels, owing to information given by his amie, and it is confidently expected that the whole "band" will soon be under lock and key. Detectives are still tracking the runaways in England, Belgium, and Spain. In the meantime it is stated that a Grand International Association of Pickpockets has been formed in America, with a view to operations during the forthcoming Paris Exhibition, and that the services of old "Fagins" who drilled "Oliver Twists" and "Artful Dodgers" for the preceding Exhibitions have been called into requisition once more. The French persist in regarding all swindlers and cutpurses who ply their nefarious trades in Paris as Anglo-Saxons, but the exploits of the band Touche-à-Tout, Allmayer, Catusse, and company show that French thievery is rapidly developing.

Alexandre Dumas fils has written a letter, which occupies several columns of the Figaro, to Baron de Vaux, on the subject of his work, "Les Hommes de Sport," to which this lengthy epistle is intended to serve as an introduction. It is stamped with the celebrated novelist's charm of style, and what will probably surprise many of his friends, contains avowal of his personal intense interest in every species of athletic sports and exercises. Apparently, if M. Dumas fils had not been an author, he would have preferred to be a gymnast. "As for myself," he writes, "if I had been able to follow my own inclination I should have occupied myself, I do not say exclusively, but certainly to a large extent, with horses and dogs, fencing and the chase, and above all with gymnastics. To be possessed of great muscular power was long ago my ambition, and I should have secured it, for Nature had met me half-way, but fate—or shall I use the truer word, fortune—decided otherwise." Even as it is, such leisure as a literary career has permitted since he was two or three and twenty—for up to that time he declares he was lazy—has been devoted in no small degree to fencing, horsemanship, single-stick, boxing, and gymnastics, in which accomplishments, for his age, he still finds himself fairly well equipped. M. Dumas fils points out that he inherits these predilections for sport from his father and grandfather, who were both endowed with muscular strength, and knew how to use it—à propos of which some capital stories are told. One of these is worth telling. M. Dumas' grandfather was a General of the Republic. On a particular occasion he was sitting in a box at a theatre with a handsome Creole lady. The General was at the back of the loge when a Mousquetaire friend of the lady opened the door and attempted to enter into conversation with her, concluding with an offer to escort her home. "I thank you, sir," she answered; "but I am not alone." "Who is with you?" inquired the gallant. "This gentleman," replied the lady, pointing to the General sitting at the back of the loge. "Oh! pardon," exclaimed the young man, "I took Monsieur for your lackey!" This impertinence was no sooner offered than General Dumas seized the Mousquetaire by the waist, and threw him into the pit of the theatre. The consequences which followed this episode are related by Dumas père in the first chapter of his Memoirs. The distinguished writer seizes the opportunity to ridicule modern French duels, which have become so harmless that the dénouements may be said to be arranged beforehand, just as a marriage comes at the end of a comedy. "Yesterday the parties are friends, to-day enemies, to-morrow morning combatants. A drop of blood from the fore-arm at nine o'clock; lunch at eleven; honour safe and life also." Genuine duels, M. Dumas thinks, cannot be suppressed or avoided while human nature remains what it is; but for these sham duels he suggests a law that where neither of the duellists is killed, or so injured as to be laid aside for at least a month, both shall be condemned to a fine of 10,000 francs and imprisonment for two years. This sprightly introduction is sure to be well read, and it will tend to strengthen the love for athletic exercises and add to the well-merited ridicule evoked by some recent hostile encounters.

The eternal "Courrier de Lyon" has just been revived again with the extraordinary success that has marked every performance which has taken place in France during the past eight and thirty years. What is still more wonderful is that during the whole of that long period one actor has been identified with the same rôle. No manager in Paris has ever thought of bringing out "Le Courrier de Lyon" without securing this artist for the character of Chopard, called "L'Aimable," and whenever M. Paulin Ménier has been engaged at a Parisian theatre, "The Lyons Mail" has inevitably been revived. Thus it has been now in the case of the Porte-Saint-Martin. M. Paulin Ménier—though I believe he is more than seventy years of age—succeeded in imprinting his own distinctive individuality on the best-drawn character in M. Georges Ohnet's last play. The piece had a long run, but when its career was exhausted, M. Duquesnel, the manager of the Porte-Saint-Martin, naturally thought of the "Courrier de Lyon," in order to utilise the services of an actor who is but rarely seen on the stage, but is gifted with altogether exceptional power. Chopard, the rascally horse-dealer, is far less important a personage than Lesurques; but the veteran actor, who has kept possession of the part ever since he first created it, has elaborated the character into so strongly-outlined and deeply-coloured an individuality that it remains for ever impressed on the memory of all who have once seen it. It is possible that there may be something of over-elaboration in the present performance; but an old play-goer to whom I made this observation to-day protested that "Le Courrier de Lyon" was by this time as much encumbered by tradition as any of the classic-works of Corneille or Molière, and that the accumulated "business" introduced must necessarily make the play drag. The double character of the innocent Lesurques and the murderous Dubosc was undertaken for the first time by M. Chelles, who was far more effective as the chivalrous and unfortunate gentleman than as the blustering blackguard. He was particularly good in the scene wherein Lesurques' father, believing his son to be the assassin, puts a pistol into his hand and bids him destroy his own life rather than bring disgrace upon his name. This is, by far, the finest scene in the play, and I was informed in the theatre by a veteran littérateur that it was written by Maquet, who was the constant collaborateur of the Elder Dumas. Maquet's name does not figure on the title-page with those of the three other collaborateurs there mentioned, and the fact is, I believe, not generally known. Another old play-goer who was present at the "first performance," also told me that at that time the family of Lesurques used to distribute hand-bills in the theatre, urging the public to help them in their endeavours to get the sentence passed on the unhappy victim reversed by law. All their efforts were, however, unavailing, the deliberate opinion of those jurisconsults who re-opened the question being that Lesurques, though he probably did not actually commit the murder, was privy to it, and reaped some benefit from the proceeds.

Despite the cold temperature and the keen wind the Races in the Bois de Boulogne this afternoon were well-attended. The sport also was fairly interesting, some of the events being well-contested. The following were the results: Prix de la Cascade.—Louvette, 1; Farandole, 2; Vin Doux, 3; won by a length. Also ran: Raguse and Alligator. Prix de Villeron.—A "walk-over" for Endymion (Storr). Prix des Chênes—Tire Larigot, 1; Helyette, 2; Prophète, 3; won by a length. Also ran Caillette, Mdlle. de Capeyron, Carmaux, Damoclès, Valet de Cœur, Germaine II., Flatteur, Aventurier, Pourtant, Grisolet, and Livie. Prix du Prince d'Orange.—Athos, 1; Catharina, 2; Sibérie, 3. Won by a length and a half. Also ran: Le Cordouan. Prix du Rond-Point.—Halbran, 1; Melbourne, 2; Bercy, 3. Won by three-quarters of a length. Also ran: Bandmaster. Prix des Fortifications.—Cat, 1; Palatine, 2; Lionne, 3. Won by a length and a half.

On the Bourse yesterday the last quotations were: Three per Cents., 82f 37½c (a fall of 15c); Four and a Half per Cents., 106f 52½c (a fall of 7½c); Italians, 96f 75c (a fall of 12½c); Turks, 15f 12½c (a fall of 5c); Spanish Exteriors, 73f 25c; Egyptian Unified, 425f; ditto Preference, 520f; and Ottoman Bank, 530f. Suez Canal shares closed at 2,212f 50c, and Rio Tinto at 576f. Home funds continued weak, the Market being still affected by the raising of the rate of discount of the Banks of England and France. This attitude was shared by most of the foreign stocks, including Hungarians and Russians. There was a fall of 10f in Suez-Canal shares.

POLITICS IN WALES.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE DAILY TELEGRAPH."

Sir—Seeing that my name has been rather prominently made public in connection with the approaching political meeting in Wales, as the host of Mr. John Morley, and presumably as a supporter of what I understand to be some of the objects of that meeting, I trust to your kindness to allow me, through your columns, to make it known that Mr. Stuart Rendel, M.P., is the entertainer of Mr. Morley, and that however much it would give me pleasure, socially, to be of service to those gentlemen, and to aid them in any movement in the interests of Wales, I cannot allow it for one moment to be implied that I sympathise in the slightest degree with the views respecting Ireland entertained by that section of the Liberal party to which they belong. For this reason I declined, when asked to do so, to preside or take any part in the proceedings of the meeting.

Like many others who have for several years served under Mr. Gladstone, I deeply deplore the line he has thought right to follow since the last general election, when the verdict of the nation was given against his proposed Irish legislation, and in favour of the restoration of law and order to Ireland before the consideration of any further remedial measures.

Believing strongly that the position ought to be accepted, and that the right policy is to support the hands of the present Government, I cannot remain quiet and be supposed to be in sympathy with those who, it appears to me, are doing all in their power to weaken, instead of strengthening, the Executive in Ireland.—Your obedient servant, 44, Grosvenor-gardens, Oct. 6. SUDELEY.

Dated St. Petersburg, Oct. 7, a Reuter's telegram says: "With a view of further strengthening the cash balance in the Imperial Bank in the manner sanctioned by the Czar's ukase of July 20 last, the Minister of Finance yesterday authorised the Bank to effect a fresh issue of 15,000,000 roubles of temporary credit notes, to be guaranteed on this occasion by the gold belonging to the Bank."

Found in the Thames.—On Saturday morning the body of a woman was found floating in the Thames off Pimlico Pier. It was conveyed to the mortuary at Ebury Bridge, and has since been identified as that of Elizabeth Jutsum, aged fifty-two, of 21, Westmoreland-street, Pimlico. Some pawntickets in her pocket gave the police a clue to her identity. She was missed from her home on Friday night, and it is surmised that she threw herself into the river during the night. There was nothing in the outward appearance of the body when found to raise any suspicion of violence.

ITALIAN SILK COVERLETS,
As shown at the Italian Exhibition.
Hand-woven in Algerian, Oriental, and National Colourings, for Portières, Curtains, and all Decorative purposes.
[illegible], price 7s. 6d.
"Como Silk Coverlets.—Messrs. Debenham and Freebody have introduced a novelty in Italian silks that has every claim to popularity by reason of beauty of colouring and genuineness of material. The novelty is hand-woven by peasants on the shores of the Lake of Como, and not only can they be used for coverlets, but they would prove most effective for portières and curtains, lending themselves readily to decorative purposes generally. They are inexpensive, warm, light, and do not crease, being woven with unadulterated silk."—The Queen.

WARD, LOCK, and CO.'S NEW SERIAL PUBLICATIONS.
Part 1. of each ready Oct. 26, 1888.
In Monthly Parts, 6d. each, Part I. ready Oct. 26, 1888 (to be completed in about 20 parts).
ENGLAND'S BATTLES by SEA and LAND.
With Full-page Illustrations.
The publishers have great pleasure in announcing a re-issue, in a cheap and attractive form, of the valuable work, "England's Battles by Sea and Land," by Lieut.-Colonel Williams and W. C. Stafford, Esq., which will be found replete with information about the notable events of the campaigns by which the British power has been built up, conveyed in an interesting, full and intelligible style. Hitherto this work has only been accessible in an expensive form, but it will now be issued on good paper and well printed, with a large number of illustrations, giving views of the places described, many of the scenes, naval and military, which are referred to, and portraits of the celebrated men concerned.
With Part I. will be presented gratis a Presentation Plate, representing "The Decisive Charge of the Life Guards at Waterloo," from the celebrated picture by Luke Clennell.

Re-issue in Sixpenny Monthly Parts.
Part I. ready Oct. 26, 1888. (Complete in 18 Parts.)
GOD'S GLORIOUS CREATION; or, The Wonders of Land, Sea, and Sky. Translated from the German of Dr. KLEIN, J. KLEIN, and Dr. THOMÉ, by J. MINSHULL. Beautifully Illustrated with original high-class Engravings.
It is an old saw that "good wine needs no bush," and the publishers feel, in announcing a new and cheap issue of "God's Glorious Creation," giving an account of the wonders of the earth, sea and sky, and the animal and vegetable kingdoms, that it is scarcely necessary to commend the work to a large section of the public. Suffice it to say that whatever quarter of the globe the reader may seek information about, as to its surface, its seas, its rivers, its animals, its plants, its climate, he will find it in this work. He will be enabled to follow the track of his friends in far-off lands, and not unfrequently be able to tell more of the aspect of nature around them than the town-dweller abroad knows about his own neighbourhood.

In Sixpenny Monthly Parts.
Part I. ready October 26, 1888. (To be completed in about 10 parts.)
THE LAND of the BIBLE. Its Holy Sites and Sacred Story. Profusely Illustrated with Maps and Wood Engravings.
This well-known work is woven into a Connected Narrative of Bible Events, with Explanatory Descriptions, and incidentally gives accounts of the Great Empires of the East in their connection with the Jews. Moreover, many of the recent researches of the late Mr. George Smith and other explorers have been incorporated, and these will be found to throw much light on the supremely interesting and important History of the Jews. Sunday school teachers, as well as scholars and fathers and mothers who give their own children religious instruction, will find this work capable of affording them much help.
Prospectuses will be sent post free on application.

Mr. Verne has accomplished the difficult task of writing a love song which stands out from among the vast number of ditties on the same subject. Heard but Yesterday, it is already sought for To-day, and we may confidently predict that it will live For Ever in the hearts of those who hear it.
